A CHANGE IN TERMINALS

THE M., K. & T. WILL SHIFT TO MOKANE FROM FRANKLIN JUNCTION.

PRELIMINARIES NOW UNDER WAY

Belief in Railway Circles Is That the Change Will Be Made on the First Day of September.

While no official announcement has been made, it can be definitely stated that the terminals of the M., K. & T. railway at Franklin Junction are to be moved to Mokane, Mo.

The preliminary work to this change is now under way. It is the moving of the depot from the Junction to New Franklin, a distance of a mile, which work was begun yesterday.

Franklin Junction will practically be reduced to a whistling station. Trains will run through from Sedalia and Mokane and from Sedalia to Hannibal.

The change will benefit Sedalia very materially and will bring a number of families here. It will also give Mokane a little boost.

Local railroad men are now sanguine that the new round house, long needed here, will be built. How soon this will come is not known, but they say it is bound to come when the change in the terminals is made.

There has never been ample shelter in Sedalia for the locomotives used on the Sedalia division and it is said the company officials have known and regretted this for a long time, but the matter of building a round house here has been deferred until the terminal question was definitely settled.

Just what day the move will be made can not at this time be stated, but it is believed it will be made on or about September 1.

A RATTLING RUNAWAY

It Occurred on East Third Street Last Evening.

An exciting runaway occurred on East Third street last night. Two young men and one young lady were driving in a one-seated vehicle, when in front of Olmsted's livery barn, on East Third street, the horse took fright at a street car, and, turning sharply, it cramped the buggy, turning it over and throwing the occupants out.

The horse ran east on Third, dragging the buggy, and when near Washington avenue the vehicle struck a post with such force as to straighten it up again.

The horse continued on its mad dash to Third and Engineer, where it was stopped.

An hour later the horse was driven back to Olmsted's barn, uninjured, and the buggy just slightly scratched. None of the occupants was injured and when the street car man attempted to identify them they refused to give their names and left the neighborhood.

RUN OVER BY A WAGON

Charles Henry Bolton, Aged Six Years, This Morning.

Charles Henry Bolton, son of W. W. Bolton, Seventh and Summit streets, was painfully injured near his home this morning.

The lad, in company with a companion, jumped upon a passing wagon loaded with grain and took a short ride.

In attempting to alight, Charlie fell between the front and hind wheels, and the latter passed over his head.

Dr. M. T. Collins was called and dressed the boy's wounds, but it will not be known for a day or two how badly he is injured.

Received a Death Message.

Mr. Charles Hoffman received a message today apprising him of the death of Mrs. Hoffman, wife of Andrew Hoffman, which occurred at Clenstead, Nebraska, this morning. Deceased was a sister-in-law to the Hoffmans here. Mr. Hoffman will not attend the funeral.

Girl Killed in Car.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 7.—A log placed over the roadway wrecked an automobile in which Miss May Bushnell, 25 years old, and a young man, were riding last night. Miss Bushnell's skull was fractured, and she died from her injuries. The authorities are seeking the perpetrators.

Attending a Picnic.

City Counselor Mark A. McGruder left this morning for Dresden, and thence to Gorrell's grove, where he delivered an address at the M. W. of A. picnic. County School Commissioner T. R. Luckett also delivered an address.

Disturbed "Polly's" Peace.

Joe Moffitt paid a fine of $5 and costs, assessed by Judge Clark this morning. Polly Bryant Howe was the complaining witness, she charging that Moffitt disturbed her peace.

CAME TO SEDALIA AND IS LOCATED IN AN IMMORAL RESORT.

HER PARENTS CAME AFTER HER

It Is Said That a Married Man of This City Is Responsible for Her Downfall—Will Return to Morgan County.

An 18-year-old girl who had run away from her home in Morgan county, Mo., was located in Sedalia yesterday in an immoral resort on the north side.

Her parents and brothers and sisters all came here to reclaim her, and the scene attending the meeting was a pathetic one.

The girl at first refused to go back home, and the pleadings and coaxing of the parents could not shake her in this determination to stay, but Judge Rickman told the wayward one what would happen to her if she didn't return, and she decided to go with her parents.

The girl was a pitiful object when brought before her relatives, having not recovered from a night's dissipation, and she was in no condition to travel, and was taken to the home of a sister in town here, where she will stay until able to go to her Morgan county home.

A well known business man in Sedalia, who is married, is said to be responsible for the girl's condition.

MRS. FRANKEN'S FUNERAL

Will Be Held From Sacred Heart Church Thursday Morning.

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the funeral services of Mrs. Anna Katherine Franken will be conducted at Sacred Heart church, with requiem high mass, and burial will be in the Catholic cemetery.

The members of the Altar society and the Sacred Heart branch of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America will attend in a body.

The following friends of the family will serve as pallbearers:

Frank Lorsbach, Charles Pfeiffer, A. V. Falder, J. J. Wermelskirchen, J. J. Hilgert and E. M. O'Brien.

ENJOYED A TROLLEY RIDE

Sunday School Class Sold $26 Worth of Tickets.

Class No. 8, Broadway Christian church, Mr. A. J. White and J. E. Hayes, teachers, gave a trolley ride over the Sedalia street railway lines last night.

The class members sold tickets for the event, and enough were disposed of to fill three cars with passengers.

A thoroughly delightful evening was enjoyed, and the affair was a success from a financial standpoint, the class members netting $26, which will be placed in some fund.

Hip Was Not Broken.

Miss Ina Denny, who was thrown from a street car Monday night, is resting comfortably today. Her hip was not broken, as feared at first, but it was badly bruised.

KILLED FORTY PERSONS

RECORD HAS MADE ENGINEER AN AUTOMATOM WITHOUT A HEART.

PULLS EXPRESS ON THE C., B. & Q.

Last Accident Was Killing of Three Men Near Napersville, Ill.—Once Before Killed Five People.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Three men killed near Napersville, Ill., by a Chicago-bound Burlington train driven by Engineer George Abbott, of Aurora, were the latest of about forty victims of the juggernaut driven by that engineer during his railroading career.

Looking back today along the thirty years of life with the steel monsters Abbott saw a mangled corpse or two at what seemed to be short intervals.

From a haunted, nerve-wrecked man, the engineer with so grewsome a record has developed by his own admission into a cold, unfeeling automaton—a part of the giant machine he handles.

At the Union station Engineer Abbott told of the horrors he had experienced with killing little children, old men and women who cried so that he remembred it for days.

He told of the gradual chilling of his faculties for receiving sensations and revulsions and remorse over the slaughter, and declared that he no longer lay awake at night after killing a man, and that he could gaze on the blood-spattered tender of his locomotive without a shudder.

Abbott has driven his engine over groups of men and killed five at a time, he says. He has seen a woman hurled high over the telegraph wires by the side of the track from the front of his engine, and he has watched a little child rolled along the ties by the pointed prow of the tender for a hundred feet before she disappeared beneath the wheels of the engine in which he was riding.

"I think that my record of accidents has made of me a more useful engineer than many who have never seen a man killed," said Abbott. "I can face emergencies now that a man who has been more fortunate would quail at, and my nerves are so used to the sight of a man in danger that I can act with greater precision and dispatch than the man who has never seen a man a stone's throw from the front of his locomotive going at a 50-mile clip.

"More than one man owes his life to the fact that I have seen mutilated bodies under the wheels of my train until my hair has turned gray, until I have become benumbed and can use a judgment that is unimpaired by excitement."

OFF ON BRIDAL TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Durfee Came to Sedalia This Morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Durfee, of New Franklin, Mo., passed through Sedalia this morning, en route to Galveston, Texas. The couple are on their honeymoon. They were married at 6 o'clock this morning at the bride's home at Franklin, and, after a wedding breakfast, left for Galveston.

Mrs. Durfee's maiden name was Beulah Bruce. She is a cousin to Mrs. J. R. Baldwin, who, with her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Sims, of Marshall, Mo., met the couple at the station here.

DYING IN CHICAGO

"Mike" McDonald, Boss Gambler and Politician Nearing End.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Michael C. McDonald, formerly a "boss gamester" and prominent politician of this city, is dying in a hospital here. He is the husband of Mrs. Dora McDonald, now awaiting trial for the murder of Webster S. Guerin. This affair is said to have had a strong influence in shortening McDonald's life.

To the Country for Outing.

Rev. S. S. Martin and family, Mrs. S. H. Clay and family and Miss Maud Brandt leave tomorrow morning for a sojourn of a couple of days at Hon. J. H. Bothwell's beautiful suburban home, Stonyridge.

A Social at Spring Fork.

The ladies of the Spring Fork church will give an ice cream social at the home of Mrs. Catherine McGee, eight miles south of the city, Thursday night, and it is expected that Judge D. E. Kennedy, County Collector John L. Sullivan, J. W. Murphy and Frank McGinley, with their lady friends, will be present.

Mrs. Flower Taken to Her Home.

Mrs. C. W. Flower, who has been receiving treatment at Maywood hospital, following an operation, was removed to her home yesterday afternoon, and her many friends will be glad to know that she is getting along nicely.

The Mrs. U. F. Short Case.

The case of Mrs. U. F. Short, charged with unreasonably whipping a child, will be heard before Judge Leaming tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

WEEDING OUT UNION MEN

MINE OWNERS ARE ENFORCING CARD SYSTEM AT CRIPPLE CREEK.

THERE MAY BE TROUBLE A HEAD

This Action Has Been Taken in Anticipation of the Reorganization of the Western Federation of Miners.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Aug. 7.—Following the decision of the Mine Owners' association, which met in conference at Colorado Springs Monday, to strictly enforce the "card permit" system in the Cripple Creek district, several of the mining companies yesterday discharged miners supposed or known to be union men. Other mining companies, it is said, will immediately weed out all union men.

This action was taken in anticipation of an attempt by the Western Federation of Miners to reorganize in the district.

The return of William D. Haywood to Colorado had much to do with the decision of the mine owners.

DEATH OF MRS. BURNS

Remains Taken to Kansas City Today for Interment.

Mrs. Anna Burns, wife of David Burns, former residents of Sedalia, but who had lived in Kansas City for the past eight months, was operated upon here Tuesday afternoon by Drs. Smith and Ott, of Kansas City, for appendicitis, but she failed to revive from the shock, passing away between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The family had just arranged to remove back to Sedalia. Mrs. Burns was about 35 years of age, was a member of the M. E. church, and, besides her husband, leaves five children.

There was a short burial service at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at McLaughlin Bros.' undertaking parlors, conducted by the Rev. Clarke Baker, of the Epworth M. E. church, and at 2:35 o'clock the remains were shipped to Kansas City for interment, the body being accompanied there by the husband and children and Mr. and Mrs. George Henson, of Kansas City.

HEAT AFFECTS BALL PLAYER

Harry Chapman Said to Be Temporarily Insane.

Trenton, Mo., Aug. 7.—Harry Chapman, of Severance, Kas., a professional ball player in Kansas, Missouri and Iowa, was taken home from here yesterday by relatives in what appeared to be a state of temporary insanity, probably caused by heat.

He had been affected for three days. Physicians say with care he may recover.

Girls' Social Cleared $50.

The receipts at the social given Tuesday night by the young girls of Sacred Heart parish were about $60, and they will have $50 clear for their labor. About twenty gallons of cream were sold.

TRIES TO LYNCH THREE

NEW YORK MOB CRAZED BY ANOTHER "NEAR CRIME" TUESDAY.

THE EXCITEMENT WAS INTENSE

Greek Peddler Kisses Italian Girl and Nearly Loses His Life—Two Other Men Badly Beaten.

New York, Aug. 7.—More of what have come to be seriously known at police headquarters at "near crimes" against girls were followed by narrow escapes from lynchings yesterday. Out of the score of complaints that reached the police, a half dozen demanded serious attention. Whether the number is extraordinary is disputed, but certain it is that never before has mob vengeance so frequently attended attacks upon children.

Led by a woman who, alternately in Italian and broken English, cried "aveinge my daughter," a reckless crowd of perhaps 2,000 persons last night stormed the Fourteenth street car barns of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, where a policeman had sought refuge with a seriously pummeled prisoner.

Paul Sorgerate, a Greek peddler 30 years of age, had made the mistake, so it is charged, of kissing Grace Josco, an Italian of 11 years. A shrill cry from the girl and an impassioned appeal by the mother put the foreigners of the neighborhood in a rage, and as the Greek took to his heels, a crowd pursued. When a block had been covered Sorgerate stumbled and fell and the mob was upon him.

Kicked nearly senseless, the Greek, a powerful man, nevertheless gained his feet only to be knocked down again. By this time some one had snatched a clothesline from the window of a grocery store and the rioters attempted to put a noose over the offender's head.

Only the over eagerness of each rioter to have a hand in the lassoing saved the peddler's neck. During the confusion a policeman arrived and clubbed his way to the endangered man. For a moment the crowd fell back and within that time the officer had dragged his man to the nearby car barns. Concealing his prisoner in a car, the officer waited assistance, while the rioters threw themselves against the doors in an effort to force an entrance. Police reserves stood off the mob while the Greek was hustled into a patrol wagon.

Through a crowd that cried "Kill him, lynch him" the police fought their way to the nearest station house. Sorgerato was in bad shape, but is was thought inadvisable to attempt his removal to a hospital during the excitement. His eyes were blackened, his nose broken, scalp torn, face lacerated and his body black with bruises.

Cheated of their man, the crowd vented its fury on Gaston Keriskell, an unoffending workman, homeward bound. As he was passing the rioters a boy pointed him out, at the same time yelling "That's the man's friend; he was there, too!" Keriskell was pounded until he was unconscious. The police reserves finally got the injured man and removed him to a hospital.

Edward Pratt, a millwright, 46 years old, had a somewhat peculiar experience late this afternoon in West Fifty-seventh street. Nellie and Helen Farrel, each about 10 years old, accused Pratt of improper remarks. He was frightfully mauled before rescued from a mob by the police.

"There is not any crime wave," said Superintendent Jenkins of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. "I mean by that that our statistics show no increase in the number of actual assaults committed upon girls under 16 years. Our clerical force has just examined the record to make sure whether there is any warrant for published assertions that this phase of crime shows a marked increase.

"It is very easy for a mother or a father to take alarm at a perfectly innocent caress bestown by a grown person upon a child and to infer a criminal motive.

"At this season of the year there is always a relative increase in the number of assaults and attempted assaults upon girls under 16. They have not, however, increased relatively to date this month and last that there were in July and August of 1906.

Bitten by a Dog.

E. H. Hillyard was bitten on the left index finger by a stray dog at his home, 208 South Prospect avenue, at the supper hour Tuesday night. The wound was cauterized by Dr. Cowan, but Mr. Hillyard left Tuesday midnight for Chicago for treatment at the Pasteur institute. It is not known that the dog was mad, but Mr. Hillyard did not care to take any chances on hydrophobia.

Case Again Continued.

The case of Peter Holbert, charged with cursing a young negro girl was continued in Judge Rickman's court today to give time to investigate certain charges by the defense reflecting on the girl's character. The case will be given a hearing next Wednesday.

TURKS ARE ON A RAID

TROOPS MARCH INTO PERSIA, CARRYING DEATH OR DESTRUCTION WITH THEM.

MEN, WOMEN, CHILDREN KILLED

Soldiers Also Carry Off Ten Girls as Their Prisoners—Foreign Representatives Called Upon by Government.

Teperan, Persia, Aug. 7.—Latest advices from the frontier say that the Turkish troops which recently crossed the northwest frontier of Persia, are marching on Urumiah, burning and devastating all the villages along the route.

The Christian village of Mevan is reported shelled, and ninety persons, including men, women and children, are said to have been killed. Ten girls were carried off by the soldiers.

The government is consulting with foreign representatives regarding the invasion.

MILL IS BURNED

One of Biggest Concerns in Cripple Creek District Nearly Consumed.

Colorado Springs, Aug. 7.—Three-fourths of the Golden Cycle Mining and Milling Co.'s huge plant at Colorado City was destroyed by fire today. The mill last month handled nearly half of the entire output of ore of the Cripple creek district and was valued at $1,000,000. The loss is estimated at $750,000.

The plant was formerly known as the Telluride mills, and was owned by New York capitalists. It was involved in the mill men's strike which terminated in the Cripple Creek labor difficulties.

The mills were later taken over by J. T. Milliken, of St. Louis, and associates, who rebuilt the plant and added extensively to its capacity. It had been in operation but a couple of months, and is the largest cyancide plant in the west.

BUILT HER A NEW HOME

Mrs. Annie H. Yeater, Who Lost Her Dwelling by Fire.

Mrs. Annie H. Yeater, who lost her fine home, two miles west of Sedalia, in April last by fire, has rebuilt on the location of the old house, and will occupy the new building this week.

Mrs. Yeater has built an up-to-date eight-room cottage, with all the conveniences for comfort, including closets, bath room and porches.

The building is most substantially built, with the best of material, at a cost of $2,500. It is situated in a beautiful shady grove, and is one of the handsomest suburban residences surrounding Sedalia.

A Delightful Lawn Social.

The ladies of the First Congregational church gave a truly enjoyable social on the church lawn, Sixth and Osage streets, Tuesday night, and cleared $24. The lawn was illuminated with Japanese lanterns, and one and all passed a pleasant evening.

A CASH ACCOUNT SHORT

JOHNSON COUNTY BANKER IS CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

THE CASE OF MR. W. L. DELANEY

He Was President of the Bank of Centerview, but Skipped Out With a Shortage and Was Captured in Tennessee.

Warrensburg, Mo., Aug. 7.—When the case against W. L. Delaney, charged with embezzlement, was called here yesterday Judge Bradley agreed to select another judge to try the case, after the defendant had sworn that Judge Bradley was prejudiced.

Delaney was for many years president of the Bank of Centerview. In March, 1906, a bank inspector called on him and checked up his accounts. He found several discrepancies in the cash account, which he called on Delaney to explain.

Delaney claimed he had the balances asked for in the Traders' bank, of Kansas City, and said he would go there and verify the accounts.

He immediately disappeared and the bank inspector, finding the bank several thousand dollars short, closed its doors.

Several months afterward Delaney was found working as a day laborer in Southeast Tennessee and was brought home.

It is claimed he made restitution for the bank shortage as far as his property would go.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Went Into Ditch and Two Men Killed and Two Injured.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—Two Milwaukee men were killed, one fatally injured and a fourth slightly hurt in an automobile accident at Brookfield. Corners early today, the machine containing the four going into a ditch. The dead are:

Joseph H. Kuschbert, of Milwaukee, a former alderman of the city, and George Poss, the chauffeur.

The injured are: Horace Greely Sloan, son of a former Milwaukee judge, who is seriously hurt, and Paddy Dorrell, a fight promoter and saloon keeper, slightly injured.

The men were pinned under the heavy car when it turned over in the ditch.

GASS MAKES APPOINTMENTS

State Superintendent of Schools Selects His Staff.

Jefferson City, Aug. 7.—L. J. Hall, superintendent of the Joplin public schools, was yesterday appointed chief clerk in the department of education by Superintendent of Schools H. A. Gass.

U. W. Lampkin, of Clinton, who has been chief clerk since last January, has been made High school examiner.

E. M. Carter has been made examiner of rural schools, Luther Hardaway statistician and C. B. Hughey text book filing clerk.

Mr. Hall was chief clerk of the department under Superintendent W. T. Carrington for a number of years.

FOLLOWED OLD CUSTOMS

Modern Lady Godiva Clad in Fleshlings Gave Imitation of Ride.

Coventry, England, Aug. 7—Viewed by over one hundred thousand persons, and mounted on a white palfrey and decorously clothed in masses of hair, pink fleshlings and clouds of gauze, a modern Lady Godiva today gave a representation of that lady's historic ride through the city's streets today.

WHAT WAS THE MOTIVE?

The Capital this morning takes exceptions to the article in Tuesday's Democrat-Sentinel regarding the good roads meeting, in which it was said:

"Mayors and business men appointed by mayors, members of county courts were there from other places, all organized to obtain a recommendation from the board having the matter in charge, but Sedalia and Pettis county had but four men, and they only volunteers, who at the last moment attended the meeting in their private capacities as citizens, and were not authorized to act as official representatives of the people."

The morning paper seems to find in the statement a reflection on Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Mellor, of the Business Men's association, and takes us severely to task for the utterance.

As a matter of fact, no reflection was intended and no reflection was made on the gentlemen referred to, or upon the organization that they represent.

Mr. Mellor was present at the Jefferson City meeting as one of Sedalia's representatives, and the Democrat-Sentinel so stated. Mr. Johnston, also went by request of the association, the writer was present by request of Mr. Johnston, and Mr. Cloney by request of the writer.

And yet they were all volunteers, representing no authority chosen by the people of Sedalia or Pettis county, and Mr. Johnston so stated in his address before the meeting, saying he spoke in a private capacity only and not for any constituted authority.

The attempt of the Capital to distort the utterances of this paper into an attack upon the Business Men's association is unjust, unkind and far from generous, and demonstrates the possession of motives that, to say the least, are not praiseworthy or creditable to any paper that professes to be fair and just, even to its contemporaries.

WE TOLD YOU SO.

It has been reiterated in these columns frequently that no tariff revision is possible by the republican majority in the next congres. The trusts and monopolists have too firm a hold on the republican leaders. This is now confirmed from Oyster Bay by Senator Hopkins, after a consultation with President Roosevelt, which was participated in by H. H. Miles, representing the Wisconsin Tariff Revision league. Senator Hopkins, on leaving Oyster Bay, said:

"The conclusion reached was that no tariff revision should be undertaken until after the next presidential election. It would be suicidal to the republican party," the senator added, "to undertake a revision of the tariff during the next congress. After the presidential election I believe that it will be the duty of the republican party to revise the tariff, and that it will be done."

After! after! always after, or later, or next year, but never now. The latest republican national platform declared: "We insist upon the maintenance of the principle of protection," and the next platform will contain a similar declaration, or the republican leaders will find themselves without the usual contributions for their campaign funds from the protected trusts and monopolies.

Will those republicans who feel that trust high prices are plundering them be satisfied with the stand patters' program? From experience they know that, with two or three exceptions, every republican representative in congress will fall back upon the republican platform, which "insists upon the maintenance of the principle of protection," that is, the protection of the trusts and vote against tariff revision.

What does the conclusion reached by the president and Senator Hopkins mean that: "It would be suicidal for the republican party to undertake a revision of the tariff during the next congress?" It must be one of three things, either the republicans can not get along in 1908 without the usual campaign contributions from the protected trusts, or that the present trust prosperity would be dissipated by a reduction of the protection the trusts now enjoy, or to revise the tariff would cause a split in the republican ranks.

If republican prosperity is dependent upon protecting the trusts in the making of enormous profits, those who are paying trust high prices and are not too partisan to help their own pockets, must come to the conclusion that the republican leaders are in league with the trusts to plunder them.

CONGRESS ABDICATES.

What is the use of congress meeting in December, when President Roosevelt and Bert Hopkins, the junior senator from Illinois, can do all the business? They have just agreed that congress shll not undertake tariff revision, and if they can settle that question without consulting the 282 other republican members of congress, there is no good reason why they can not settle the less important questions of appropriations, etc.

Have the republican members of congress abdicated in favor of the president and Bert Hopkins, or have they delegated the settlement of the tariff issue? It would seem so.

Who will now dare say the republican representatives of the people are not led up to the executive watering trough and forced to drink by the prom is also of having their share of the swill, known as public patronage?

A great coal famine is imminent in the west because of the failure of the railroads to haul the necessary supply. We presume the 2-cent fare laws are to blame for the situation.

WHY BORROW MONEY FROM JOE DONNOHUE?

Because his rates are low.
Because his charges are reasonable.
Because the money is always ready.
Because he has to consult no one.
Because your valuable papers are kept in his fire-proof vault.
Because you always know where to lay your interest.
Because he has been in one place doing the same thing for fifteen years, and expects to stay there.

FOUND A DIAMOND FIELD

EXPERTS DECLARE ARKANSAS STONES ARE THE GENUINE THING.

THE LAND OWNED BY LOCAL MEN

Product of New Discovery Said to Equal in Beauty and Value to the South African Product.

New York, Aug. 6.—Unless all signs and expectations fail, Americans may soon be wearing diamonds found on American soil. This statement is made on the authority of Dr. George F. Kuntz, probably the foremost authority on diamonds in the country. He has just returned from a careful two months' investigation of the new field, which is situated in Pike county in Southwestern Arkansas.

Only when it is stated that there is no other locality in the United States where diamonds are found "in place" can the significance and importance of the discovery be understood. In short the new region is the first real American diamond field to be discovered. Its 600 acres are owned by Arkansas men.

Every chance of discovering a new diamond field is so eagerly accepted by experts that their eagerness has given rise to all sorts of attempts to mislead them by "salting" schemes. A succession of disappointments of this sort had made diamond men wary, so that when it became known last summer that diamonds had been found in Arkansas, the matter was carefully investigated.

The investigation developed the fact that there was nothing suspicious about the discovery. A native who could not read and write, walking along the road, saw two sparkling stones at the roadside, and carried them to a jeweler. Local jewelers pronounced them diamonds, and they were eventually submitted to Dr. Kunz.

Dr. Kunz, accompanied by Dr. H. S. Washington, the well-known petrographer, visited the region and made a survey of the field. Within the last few years Dr. Kunz has followed up every discovery of a diamond in the United States, with a hope that a new region worth while could be found.

Discoveries in Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio were investigated, and in every case it was ascertained that the occurrence of the stone was unusual, and its discovery was explained by the fact that it was in the glacial moraine and had been carried down from some other field in Canada.

The Pike county field is several hundred miles south of the southern line of the glacial moraine, so the possibility of the occurrence being of the same nature as those further north was at once dismissed. The outcropping of the rock in which this discovery was made was first noted in 1842, and has been puzzling and interesting geologists ever since. Careful searches have failed to discover any other similar outcropping.

Dr. Kunz said that he was fully satisfied that an American diamond field had at length been discovered.

"This peculiar formation," he said, "is volcanic rock of igneous stock, very similar to that of the South African diamond mines. In extent it covers about 100 acres; the stones, however, have all been found in an area some five acres in extent, between two dikes, where a roadway has cut up the decomposed rock. The first stones were found almost exactly a year ago by a native and since then they have been found almost continuously.

Last reports place the total number of stones discovered at 130. Many are white and of good water, while others are yellow and some brown. The two largest stones weigh 6½ carats, one exceedingly fine and white and the other brown. They are met with on the surface of the igneous area, as well as in the greenish, friable, decomposed peridotite, somewhat like the famous 'blue ground' of Kimberly."

The entire field is controlled by local capitalists, and is now being actively prospected and developed.

John Riha, a prominent dealer of Vining, Ia., says: "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by Arlington Pharmacy.

BUNKED WITH DEAD MAN

Discovery Causes Consternation in a Tennessee Hotel.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 7.—Editor Martin, of the Harriman Free Press, Herriman, Tenn., had a novel experience last Wednesday, returning from Memphis.

He missed his train at Grand Junction, and was shown to a room in a hotel. The clerk explained that he would have to occupy a bed with another man. The newspaper man, wishing to get to sleep, thought he would slip into bed without waking his unknown companion.

Presently a young man and a young woman came in and sat over near the window. They spoke in low tones, but Martin heard them say something about sitting up with a body. It then dawned upon him that the man in the bed had not moved and that there had been no signs of life in the body.

Martin jumped from the bed with a yell. The young woman and the young man broke for the door at the same time and all went scrambling down the stairway, the young woman fainting at the bottom. It was some time and after almost everybody in the house had been awakened, that the situation was explained.

TO REMOVE IRON MOLD.

Lemon Juice and Salt Can Be Trusted to Eradicate It.

This stain is usually caused by material coming into contact with rust, or by ink. To remove it sprinkle the stain with lemon juice and salt, and expose to the air and sun. Repeat this until the stain has gone. If the above remedy fails, dip the stain into boiling water, and rub it with salts of lemon, using a rag for the purpose.

Then hold the stain over a cup or basin, and pour a stream of boiling water through. The article should be well rinsed and washed to remove all traces of the salts, which would otherwise burn the material. This last remedy must not be tried with color, as salts of lemon destroys color. If colored material is stained with iron mold, the only remedy is lemon juice, and this must be used cautiously, as it destroys some colors.

RIDES ON WATER WAGON

JOHN L. SULLIVAN AND JACOB KILRAIN STOP IN ST. LOUIS BRIEFLY.

WERE ON THEIR WAY TO THE WEST.

Will Appear in Vaudeville Acts in a Number of Cities—"John L." Appeared Before the Prince of Wales.

John L. Sullivan, once the greatest fighting machine in the world, after ten years along the milky way of New York, is a prosperous looking man high on the water wagon, with a pleasant voice and not at all terrifying appearance, says Tuesday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He passed through St. Louis Tuesday morning. With him was Jake Kilrain, whose fight with Sullivan was one of the most spectacular battles in the history of the prize ring. They went seventy-two rounds in Mississippi.

The two old fighters are on their way west. They are booked to appear in different vaudeville houses, where they will give monologues and exhibitions of sparring.

When they reached Union station at 8 a. m. none of the gatemen or other officials recognized the fighters, although the pictures of both have appeared in the newspapers for years. A man who came in on the train with them spread the news.

A minute later a man with a benevolent expression was smilingly answering in the affirmative to the question if he were John L. Sullivan.

"Just a little trip—I'm in the show business again," he said. "What do I think about all the fights lately? Well, I don't call them fights. They are commercial enterprises. A man doesn't know where he can put his money now days.

"It's not like old times at all. Why, now a fighter is paid $5,000 or more for getting whipped. In my day the loser got a fine walloping and that was all. Any man will fight now when he knows he'll get a lump sum even if he doesn't exert himself and lets the other fellow lick him.

"Bring back the old times, eh? Well, if some honest fighter would come along and get the public's confidence, then things might be started right again.

"Jeffries is out for good, I think. He's getting big as a horse now and isn't in condition. Bigger men than Jeffries have been whipped, you know." Here Sullivan looked down reminiscently at his great build and then smiled at Kilrain.

"No," he added, "I have not been abroad for a long time.

Here there was another reminiscent smile. Perhaps John L. was thinking of the night he appeared before the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.

A friend who accompanied him was stopped at the door, as it was a private exhibition.

"Tell His Royal Highness," said John L., "that if my friend is not admitted there will be no show."

His friend was admitted.

TRAINED TO FACE DEATH.

Much Care Taken in the Drilling of Cavalry Horses.

Cavalry chargers vary from 15 to 16 hands in height, and sharp rules have been laid down about their shape, action and treatment. There are regular schools where the raw four-legged recruit is trained, and his education embraces the fearless swimming of deep and wide rivers, where possibly the enemy have destroyed the bridges. It is extremely interesting to see a thousand four-legged recruits drawn up in a vast ring around the instructor, who opens the proceedings with a sharp shot from an army revolver, writes William G. Fitzgerald, in the Circle. The animals are taught to gallop fearlessly up to a line or square of infantry who are blazing away with their rifles, of course loaded only with blank cartridges. Lastly comes a charge upon batteries of quick-firing cannon. It is worth noting that, when smokeless powder came into general use, it was found that thousands of horses which would face without flinching the smoke or guns using black powder balked and shied at the sinister flash and roar of cordite and melinite. There appears to be as much individuality among horses as among men. Some take the flash and report very quietly, and are passed on to more severe trials, while others rear and try to bolt in abject terror.

Believe He Should Testify in Caleb Powers' Case.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7.—The refusal of W. S. Taylor to accept the proposition of Commonwealth Attorney R. B. Franklin to return to Kentucky and testify in the trial of Caleb Powers, without fear of arrest, has resulted in a general dissatisfaction among the republicans of the state, and it is said they advocate that Powers and his attorneys ask Governor Hanly, of Indiana, to honor the requisition of Governor Beckham for Taylor.

It is contended by the friends of Powers that, with the testimony of Taylor and Finley, it would be possible to clear Powers.

Trained Nurses in Iowa Have Clubbed Together.

Three trained nurses living in Iowa, each having individual expenses for room, board, laundry and telephone hire, conceived the idea of clubbing together and renting a small furnished flat in order to diminish expenses and make a more congenial home life. After much hunting a suite of rooms, consisting of large parlor, large bedroom, kitchen, and bath, was secured in a good locality, close to cars, for $15.75 per month, heat, light, water, gas for cooking and laundry privileges included. The bed linen and towels were furnished and laundered by the landlady, the nurses furnishing table and kitchen linen, dishes and cooking utensils, which they contributed individually.

A telephone was installed at $2 per month. The table was furnished with nourishing food, the expense averaging $6.50 per week, being divided into thirds or halves, according to the number at home. If one was alone she provided for herself.

Each took turns preparing the meals and doing part of the housework. Dividing all expenses into thirds, the total expense each was $14.56 per month. While before each nurse's expenses were: Room, $8; telephone, $2; board, $14; laundry, $3 to $4 per month—total, $27.

The club plan thus saved each one the average of $12.44 monthly. Besides this, company often was entertained, food improved, and the general sense of having a cozy home life so much enjoyed by the workers of all classes, especially the tired nurse after weeks of close confinement with the sick.

A VILLAGE IS DESERTED

DESPITE THIS FACT AURORA SPRINGS MUST PAY BOND ISSUE.

HAD A SUIT LONG IN THE COURTS

Mandamus May Force a Levy to Satisfy the Heaton Estate Judgment—Town That Was Killed in a Night.

Twenty years ago Aurora Springs, a hamlet nestling among the hills of Miller county, Mo., gave promise of becoming a town, says Wednesday's St. Louis Globe-Democrat. A $3,000 bond issue was voted to build a school house. A railroad which diverted its right of way through a neighboring village killed the town in a night, and Public Administrator Troll, in charge of the estate of John W. Heaton of the American Express company, may be compelled to sell the school house, long in disuse, to satisfy a judgment secured in the circuit court of Miller county on the bonds.

The judgment is against school districts seven, eight and nine, and amounts to almost $7,000. In addition he may bring mandamus proceedings against the county judges and the residents of the school district to compel them to vote a levy.

The litigation on the bonds, which began before the death of John W. Heaton, who bought the entire issue, is the history of Aurora Springs. Along in the 80s, Col. Robert S. ("Bob") Harvey, banker and railroad tie contractor of Eldon, Mo., who refused a republican nomination for congress two years ago; Prof. Moles, of Tuscumbia, Dr. John H. Stovall and others conceived the idea of founding a city. As the name indicates, there are springs there, whose waters are supposed to have medicinal qualities. This was the drawing card.

In less than two years several thousand people had settled there, some living in tents. They awaited the coming of the Bagnell branch of the Missouri Pacific railroad. The springs were improved, the town was incorporated and many municipal improvements contemplated. A modern school house was suggested, and the residents promptly voted the $3,000 in bonds. The entire issue was bought by John W. Heaton. The school house was built and the citizens of Aurora Springs were proud of it. William M. Lumpkin, who still lives there, signed the bond issue as district clerk. There were offenders in the new town and daily sessions of the police court, Attorney R. L. Rowden, of Vienna, Maries county, says, was held to punish them. Churches were hurriedly erected.

One day the report came that the Missouri Pacific had decided to run its branch through Eldon, a neighboring hamlet, instead of Aurora Springs. Real estate values began to tumble. Before the holder of the bonds could get out an injunction, the people who owned houses loaded them upon skids made of long Miller county trees, and removed them in the night to Eldon. One church was removed in this way and today is doing service at Eldon.

The people folded their tents and stole away. The town died so completely that even the records and the surveys of the place were lost. Public Administrator Troll says that when he instituted suit or rather revived a suit of his predecessor in office, that the greatest difficulty was had in locating, even approximately, the boundaries of the Aurora Springs school district.

After a legal battle, a judgment was secured before Judge William H. Martin in the Miller county circuit court for $2,900. A previous judgment for $2,600 had been secured by the late John H. Overall for John W. Heaton on the interest of the bonds.

The defense of the school districts' attorneys was that the boundaries of the Aurora Springs district had not been established. Yesterday the public administrator was notified that the Kansas City court of appeals had dismissed the appeal of the school districts from the judgment in the Miller county circuit court.

Residents of the three school districts are opposed to voting the necessary levy of five mills in order to gradually liquidate the bond judgments. Their attorneys claim, Attorney Rowden says, that they have no right to vote the levy on their present taxable valuation. Rowden and Pope contend that this being a pre-existing indebtedness, the constitutional inhibition does not apply. The matter will be brought to a test in some way immediately. Probably the matter will be transferred to the federal court.

John W. Heaton's estate has been in process of administration several years. The assessed valuation of the three school districts is said to be only $60,000. Attorney Rowden said that the people of the school districts, over whose lands the judgments are hanging, are unable to sell their property and can not unless the judgments are satisfied or knocked out of the courts.

Stage Murder in Turkey.

On one point the Turkish censor of the drama is inflexible—there shall be no murder committed on the stage. This is in order to prevent corruption by evil example. Consequently the dramatic effect of many plays is somewhat marred by the manner in which principals destined to be murdered are rushed off the stage, and, after receiving the fatal thrust out of sight of the audience, stagger back from the wings to sing their death songs.

CHICAGO NEWS LETTER

REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—A western writer, who was born in Wisconsin, went to school in Iowa, and got next to the soil on a farm in South Dakota, has been chosen head of a committee to arrange for an interesting society of celebrities in this city. The man is Hamlin Garland, and the work which he has undertaken is an interesting one. The "Little Room," the unique club of western artists, writers and musicians, about which so many odd stories are told, is going to be made a larger and representative organization, which it is hoped will rival the famous Players' club of New York. Permanent club rooms will be established on Michigan avenue, and here all the literary and artistic lights of Chicago and the middle west will be expected to foregather in the spare moments in which they are not engaged in writing symphonies and collecting royalties. George Barr McCutcheon, the author and dramatist, John T. McCutcheon, the cartoonist and humorist, and George Ade, who is most of these things and then some, will take a leading hand in the arrangements for the new club. Among their associates will be President Harry Pratt Judson, of the University of Chicago; Daniel H. Burnham, the architect, who drew the plans for the rebuilding of San Francisco; William Vaughn Moody, the poet and dramatist; President A. W. Harris, of Northwestern University; Roswell Field, author and brother of Eugene Field; Robert Herrick and Emerson Hough, the writers, and a score of others.

Trouble between some of the western roads and Iowa and Missouri shippers of cream have kept Chicago lawyers very busy lately. The creamery companies claim that Burlington and two other roads forced the Illinois Central, the Rock Island and the Northwestern to abrogate the low rate on cream and substitute a much higher one. The Burlington has filed an answer with the interstate commerce commission, in which it denies this and makes the counter charge that there is a combine of creamery companies in restraint of trade and in violation of the anti-trust law. Both sides are in earnest, and the fight bids fair to be a warm one.

A hundred bachelors in Chicago are gazing anxiously toward Evanston, Ill. At least, if they are not gazing they should be, for Evanston, the home of wealth and the seat of the Northwestern University, is facing race suicide. Sociologists have said it. Now the school census proves it, for the figures show an increase of 470 in the feminine population and a decrease of forty-two in the number of male inhabitants. Where are husbands for the 470 additions to the ranks of the weaker sex coming from, is the thought uppermost in the minds of Evanston mothers. Not from Evanston reply the figures — there are not enough men to go round, as it is. Of course, President Roosevelt may be appealed to, but it seems more probable that a quiet but deadly raid will be made upon Chicago's eligibles. Hence the anxiety of the hundred thousand.

The entire yearly income of J. Pierpont Morgan or John D. Rockefeller would not be sufficient to keep Chicago milk drinkers supplied with milk and cream. This fact and some interesting figures has just come to light in connection with an effort of the dealers in this city to raise the price of milk a cent a quart. This raise would seem trifling to a single customer, but in a city of the size of Chicago it means a total increased expense of ten thousand dollars a day, or more than three and a half million dollars a year. The dealers claim that the greater cost of feed, labor and maintenance of plants makes this raise necessary. They also point out that the farmers of Illinois and surrounding states will get a share of the extra money by reason of the increased schedule of wholesale prices which will go into effect in the fall. The laboratory department of the city has estimated that 955,264 quarts of milk and cream are consumed a day in Chicago, which makes the huge total of 365,000,000 quarts a year.

A curious case of feminine "Jekyll and Hyde" was revealed by police efforts to locate a young attractive woman who disappeared from Winnetka, a suburb with a reputation for distinctive culture second only to classic Evanston. Some of the young woman's friends knew of her addiction to opium as a result of the "soothing syrup" containing an opiate, given to her as a mere infant. Saying nothing of this to the police, inquiries were made at reputable sanitariums all over the country, and the missing one was found at Glen View sanitarium at Richmond, Ind., happy over the fact that she no longer had an opiated self, one which her other self had fought and loathed for years. Chicago specialists in abnormal pathology say that drink and drug habits are now subjects for scientific treatment and not hopeless manias, as science held a decade ago. They add that gross exaggerations of fact were contained in a recent article in McClure's Magazine concerning the drug and other iniquities in Chicago.

An evidence of the practical benefit of modern university work is contained in the announcement of the University of Chicago that Prof. W. W. Atwood of the department of geology, has just discovered coal fields in Alaska, which are of greater area than the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania. The discovery is the result of an investigation into the geological history of Alaska and British Columbia, which led Prof. Atwood into regions which white men had never traveled before, and which will shortly take him on a 1,600-mile canoe trip down the Yukon river. The coal fields are situated in the southeastern part of Alaska, on the Pacific side of the coast range. It is impossible yet to estimate their value, but the scarcity of commercially available coal in the territory makes the find of immense importance.

Chicago is counting on getting at least one of the big national conventions next year. Seven hundred reservations have been made in one hotel alone, and other hotels are daily receiving letters from politicians all over the country asking for rooms for convention week. The Hamilton club, which is raising money for a fund to secure the republican convention, has just reported that $127,000 is now in sight. Chicago has had so many of the important conventions that she is anxious to add next year's to her list. If present indications hold true, say politicians, the republican convention will be anything but a tame affair and may rank in interest with the Blaine convention of 1884 and the Bryan convention of 1896, both of which were held in this city.

Eighteen thousand acres of farm lands per year are now washed down stream each year by the Missouri and the Mississippi rivers. This amounts to about the area of a small county, or thirty miles square of fertile land. Many farms have been taken entire, and thousands have been ravaged to the value of a quarter million dollars each year. This is the estimate made to Chicago members of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which for more than a year has been urging that the improvement of navigable rivers had become too important to be bandied in politics. The government engineers have recommended plans which not only would protect the river banks, but make the rivers navigable avenues for transportation at costs one-sixth the rates charged by railroads. The erosion causes the obstructing sand and mud banks which interfere with steamboats. This stopped, the water would each year scour the river bed deeper, and in time prevent the possibility of freshet overflows over the levees of the lower rivers. The sum of $50,000,000 a year is set as the minimum sum needed for the necessary work of improving the 8,000 miles of coast line, as well as the rivers.

C. K. G. Billings, the well known gas magnate and breeder of trotting horses, is the latest Chicago millionaire to build an expensive residence in New York City. Time was when Chicago had no representation on Fifth avenue and along the Hudson, but that time is passed. When John W. Gates and the Moore brothers blazed their way into Wall street, absent minded New Yorkers were reminded of the fact that quite a part of the United States, and a fairly live part at that, lies west of Buffalo. Judge Gary, who was a Chicago boy, and who is still a stockholder in a little bank at Wheaton, Ill., jogged their memories again when he went east to become chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation. O. C. Barber, the head of the Diamond Match company, laid the foundation of his fortune in Chicago, and Norman B. Ream, who is director in the Pulman company, and so many banks and "industrials" that he must find it hard to remember them all, is now as well known in New York as in Chicago, to which he came after he got his first business start in Iowa. Many of these men have built or bought houses in New York, but few can compare for splendor with "Tyron Hall," the new $500,000 palace of Mr. Billings. The house is of Louis XIV style, with a tower, and interior decorations of English oak, Circassian walnut and Sienna marble.

THE STATE FAIR BOARD

What Was Done at the Afternoon Session Tuesday.

At the afternoon session of the state fair board Tuesday the superintendent of privileges was instructed to charge each eating house $50 for the season, and to allow ten helpers' tickets to each eating house.

Miss Sumner, of Boonville, was elected superintendent of the textile department in place of Miss Pauline Cranmer, of Otterville, who resigned to accept a position at the Jamestown exposition.

A number of propositions from bands to furnish music at the fair were submitted and the contract will be awarded at the next meeting.

Secretary Rippey was directed to accept the bid of S. W. Castle to furnish straw for bedding stock at the rate of $4 per ton.

It was ordered that in future no person will be awarded more than one premium in any one class in the agricultural department.

George H. Noel, of Lee's Summit, was appointed assistant marshal to Marshal Howard Wood.

All superintendents of the live stock department are to be directed to be on the fair grounds on Thursday preceding the opening of the fair to locate the stock in their stalls, or pens, as fast as they arrive.

The board adjourned to meet at the secretary's office on August 30.

GRENADES OF WAR OF 1812.

Ordnance Found at Fort McHenry Is Over Century Old.

Baltimore, Md.—While examining the contents of the ordnance storehouse at Fort McHenry, Lieut. J. L. Holcombe, of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth coast artillery discovered several boxes of old hand grenades which are supposed to be more than 100 years old.

The missiles are of the earliest make used by the United States government, and were probably placed at the historic old fort when it was first erected in 1812. Owing to the way in which they were packed the grenades had only the slightest trace of rust on them.

The discovery of the weapons recalls a bit of the ancient history of the country. In explaining their use Lieut. Holcombe said that the grenades were handled only by the grenadiers of the ship, who, walking out upon the yardarms of the old-fashioned fighting vessels, threw them into the ranks of the enemy. An explosion followed which created havoc.

They weigh about four pounds and are shaped after the fashion of the bombs used by anarchists, and are iron and loaded with gunpowder.

Several days after the discovery one of the new recruits at the fort was found trying to dry the powder in one of the missiles by roasting it on the fire. A report was made to Lieut. Watson, in command of the post, who said that he intended to write to the authorities and ask permission to dump them in the middle of the Chesapeake bay, as they were so old-fashioned that they would be of practically no use whatever in modern warfare.

BIG DOG ADOPTS CHICKENS.

Five Orphan Chicks Are Cared For by Large Black Brute.

Des Moines, Ia.—Performing all the functions of a mother to five orphaned chickens, a large black dog is attaining wide notoriety on the east side. The chickens lost their mother in some unaccountable manner and five little screaming fowls made the neighborhood miserable with their piteous cries. The chickens belonged to M. M. Friedman on East Fifth street, where the dog also belongs. The chickens huddled together after losing their mother and during the night were taken in charge by the dog, who protected them from the chilly night air. Now the dog has come into constant attendance on the five chickens and watches over them all day long.

Ed Sunberg, constable of Lee township, hearing of the strange incident, went to investigate and tried to take one of the chickens out of the box where they had huddled around the dog. He received a bite on his hand as a reward for his attempt to molest the little chicks and the dog is now left severely alone with his little family.

RUSHED UPON DEPUTIES

FORCE MEN FROM SHERIFF'S OFFICE TO LEAVE GRAND LODGE HALL.

ONE MAN GOT IN ON A PASSWORD

O'Keefe's Actions Indorsed and His Faction Elects Corps of Officers —Cobb to Call Another Meeting.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 6.—Behind barred doors and with two deputy sheriffs clamoring for admittance all afternoon, the grand lodge of the Knights and Ladies of Honor held their regular biennial meeting at the St. Louis Turner hall, Chouteau avenue and Fifteenth street, yesterday, at the call of Grand Protector John D. O'Keefe. The legality of the meeting is questioned, as O'Keefe was suspended from the leadership of the grand lodge about a month ago by Supreme Protector L. B. Lockhard and George E. Cobb was named as his successor. The letter claims that the meeting yesterday was not legal, and says that the regular meeting will not be held until October.

Peter Rebscher and W. H. Rudolph, deputy sheriffs appeared in the hall with citations for Grand Secretary James J. Kennedy and Grand Treasurer Charles H. Weinsberg, for the purpose of preventing the two officials from paying the expenses of the delegates to the convention. Rudolph went into the chambers where the deliberations of the body were going on and handed a citation to Kennedy. The latter looked over the paper and saw only the signature of Charles F. Krone, attorney for Cobb. Kennedy refused to recognize the authority of the lawyer. The deputy became insistent, however, and before he knew what happened a flying wedge, composed of both men and women delegates, was hustling him out of the door. When they got to the hallway some one recognized Rebscher, and he too, was shoved down the steps with Rudolph.

Rebscher is a past protector of the K. and L. of H. and got into the hall by giving a password. The deputy got in through a back door, which was opened by one of Cobb's woman partisans. After the two deputies were thrown out guards were placed at all of the entrances. The officers went back to the hall a number of times and threatened O'Keefe and others with contempt proceedings, but the doors were not opened. At each unsuccessful attempt of the deputies the women delegates would come to the windows and laugh and jeer.

About ninety delegates were present, including twenty-five officers of the grand lodge. The session yesterday afternoon was a continuous ovation for O'Keefe. When the nomination for grand protector was up the meeting resolved itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of offering the nomination to O'Keefe. The latter refused, however, saying that he would wait until the controversy in which he was involved was finally settled. The women delegates were particularly enthusiastic over O'Keefe, while the mention of Cobb's name brought forth shouts of disapproval.

WAITER WINS FORTUNE.

Half a Million Won on Horses; Loses It; Waits Again.

New York.—"Father," said young Thomas Sexton, leaving the ancestral leasehold in County Cavan, Ireland, "I'll come back with a high hat and a long coat, and white spats over my shoes."

Thomas found a job as a waiter in "Jack's," the famous place in the Tenderloin.

He made good his promise. He reestablished the family fortunes. He wore the regalia of prosperity in County Cavan, and he made almost a million dollars.

Yet, to-night if you should go to Jack's, Thomas Sexton—older and wiser by six years or so—will be glad to serve you a lobster.

At Jack's Thomas was stationed where sat the big ones in the sporting world. They talked. Thomas listened.

Their cash tips for service were generous. Their "tips" on the horses were more valuable still.

Thomas went to the races and won. Then an uncle died and left him a milk route, which he promptly sold for $4,000.

Shortly afterward he bloomed out as a horse owner. He could not lose. Thomas returned to Ireland with enough money to make his relatives independent for the remainder of their lives.

When Thomas returned to America he lost his money with the same facility with which he had formerly won it. And to-night, at Jack's, Thomas jollies exuberant college boys into a semblance of decorum.

The Greatest Man.

The greatest man is he who chooses the right with invincible resolution; who resists the sorest temptations from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in storms and most fearless under menace and frowns; whose reliance on truth, on virtue, on God, is most unfaltering. I believe this greatness to be most common among the multitude, whose names are never heard.—William C. Channing.

The Dignity of Youth.

The woman in the adjoining flat said to her youthful neighbor: "Virginia, I thought I heard you crying this morning." "N-e-v-e-r, n-o-t me! I'm too old to cry. I'm five years old; that was Dot." "And how old is Dot?" "Oh, she's most 18; she's old enough to be foolish."

His Promise Fulfilled.

"You told me," she said with a pout, three months after their marriage, "that you intended to die a bachelor." "To all intents and purposes," he sadly replied, "I have lived up to my declaration. I am known now merely as my wife's husband."—Judge.

Putting It Mildly.

"You resent that critic's opinions?" "Not at all," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "What I resent is his egotistic presumption in considering his opinions to sufficient importance to warrant their public expression."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves — re-establish them as needed, with

ITALIAN MOB MAN HURT

SOUGHT A ROADMASTER'S LIFE

Boss Chased Through the Streets and Stores by Angry Workmen— Finally Saved by Armed Citizens.

Murphysboro, Ill., Aug. 7.—Angered because they had been discharged and then their passions fanned to a murderous pitch because Roadmaster Carey refused them transportation to St. Louis, twenty-five Italians, armed with knives, sought the roadmaster's life, and the chase that followed terrorized the village of Fordyce, ten miles southwest of this place.

Mayor Crain, of the village, with an armed body of citizens, succeeded in saving Carey's life and arresting seventeen of the workingmen, the others escaping to the woods.

The men had been employed as an extra gang on the Iron Mountain railroad and were discharged yesterday by Foreman John House. Carey refused them transportation and, on being threatened fled.

Carey ran to Fordyce to escape from the workmen and took refuge in a saloon conducted by Richard Seibert, followed closely by the Italians. The first man to enter the place was knocked down by Seibert, but in an instant he was overpowered and the men rushed after Carey, who fled through residences to the main street.

The chase continued through the village, and Mayor Crain telegraphed to Sheriff Hanson, of this city, for aid.

The mayor and almost the entire male population of Fordyce then went to Carey's assistance and stayed the mob by surrounding it with armed men.

Sheriff Hanson brought the prisoners to Murphysboro last evening.

GROOM BALKS AND IS SUED

Woman Asks $5,000 Balm for Wounded Feelings.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Aug. 7.—To become engaged to a man, sign the matrimonial contract, set a date for the wedding ceremony, appear at the time set for marriage, find the soon-to-be bridegroom there, and then have him balk, and have all this happen in two short days, is enough to jar the sensibilities of most any young woman.

And, according to the breach of promise petition filed in the clerk's office, these things did occur to Miss Irene Allen, of East Main street, and she asks $5,000 damages for her wounded feelings.

JEWS PLAN UNIQUE BANK.

Profits to Be Given for Development of Palestine.

Tannersville, N. Y.—At the next session of the legislature of the state of New York the Zionists will have a bill presented authorizing the establishment of a bank in New York city, which will be unique in that it will be closed on Saturdays and the profits of which will be devoted to the development of Palestine.

A committee headed by Nathan Prensky, a merchant of Brooklyn; Henry Jackson, of Pittsburg, and Dr. B. L. Gordon, of Philadelphia, reported at a session of the Zionists' convention here that stock to the amount of $50,000 had already been subscribed for, with promises of a similar sum as soon as the bank is established. One of the features of this bank will be a steamship brokerage department, which will serve to protect the poor and ignorant Jews of the East side of New York city from the frauds practiced on them by irresponsible men.

As soon as the bank in New York city has been established branches will be opened in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Chicago and Cincinnati and in other cities where there are large Jewish settlements.

It is anticipated that the profits of this enterprise will be so large that many projects for development of the industrial and agricultural possibilities of Palestine, which are now in abeyance, will be successfully carried out and the way opened for the settling there of an enormous Jewish peasant population.

A NATURAL BAROMETER.

Stone That a St. Louis Man Says Foretells the Weather.

St. Louis.—A storekeeper on South Broadway has a piece of stone about as large as a man's fist in which he places more confidence as a weather indicator than he does in all the weather bureaus of the country.

He brought it with him from Germany when he came to St. Louis many years ago, and although his German neighbors told him that the stone would not work in America he finds that it operates about as well in Missouri as it did in the old country.

He says there is a mine of it in Saxony and another somewhere in Russia, and that in parts of both countries near to the mines many country people provide themselves with lumps of the stone for use as family barometers. It is composed of limestone, almost as soft as chalk, with nitre, clay and rock salt.

When the air is dry the stone is a light gray, with white spots of salt and nitre, but when the air is filled with moisture and a storm is coming on the salt and nitre turn black. The principle is recognized in the manufacture of one or two patent fancy barometers, but whether the inventors took the hint from the stone cannot be ascertained.

MAKES COPPER IN LABORATORY.

English Chemist Discovers New Method of Producing the Metal.

Baltimore.—Dr. Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins university, is authority for the statement that Sir William Ramsay, a famous chemist of Cambridge university, has discovered the method of making artificial copper, and the great discovery will be made known to science when Sir William will read a paper on the subject before the Royal Chemical society of Great Britain.

Prof. Remsen, who is prominent as a chemist, has a private letter from the famous Englishman stating that Sir William has succeeded in accomplishing the production of copper by the synthetic or combining process from the elements, sodium, lithium and potassium.

A combination of these elements treated with radium vaper, gives as a product copper sulphate, which is readily broken down into copper.

Make Clothes from Paper.

Washington.—Correspondence between Consul W. J. Pike, of Zittau, and the president of the chamber of commerce of that German city reveals that there is a firm in South Germany which makes paper clothing. Just who wears these garments is not divulged. Following is an extract from the letter to Consul Pike.

"In our district, so far as we are informed, yarns of woolen and cotton, mixed with paper, are not produced. If such is the case in other parts of Saxony we are not aware of the fact. From parties versed in this matter we learn that a material is spun, outside of Saxony, from a paper stuff obtained from wood and known as silvalin. The spinning of this silvalin yarn has up to the present only been done by a firm in South Germany. In Saxony the manufacture of such materials has never passed the trial stages.

SPOILING DRESSES A MANIA

Indianapolis, Aug. 7.—After more than two years of constant effort to capture him on the part of the police, who have been roundly abused by the fashionable people of this city, "Jack the smearer," who has ruined hundreds of party gowns by throwing mud upon them has been arrested and has made a confession.

He is an artist and a student. His name is William R. Gadd and he is 30 years old. He says he doesn't know why he threw the mud, but that he couldn't resist the inclination.

Farms of Sweet Peas.

Sweet peas have 86 divisions and some 300 subdivisions. In California, where almost all the flower seeds are grown, one farm of 500 acres is given up to the production of sweet peas alone. The total production yearly is about 350,000 pounds, and even when this amount is augmented by the yield from smaller farms it is almost impossible to meet the demand.

Sweet peas are the most popular flowers in America for home gardens, except the nasturtiums, and even these cannot always compete with the sweet peas.

Where country air and sunshine abound sweet peas hold unrivaled supremacy, and nasturtiums are in use for window boxes and scant little city gardens, where a small back yard must do duty for a flower lover.—Los Angeles Times.

New Master of Finance.

A young Wall street broker has been spoken of as "the new wizard of finance." Otto H. Kahn, recently has received the credit of placing a $50,000,000 issue of Pennsylvania railroad bonds on the Paris bourse. In financial circles this is considered a great achievement, many having tried and failed to accomplish it. A few days ago he was called before the interstate commerce commission and surprised its members with his knowledge of railroad and financial affairs. Mr. Kahn is 39 years old.

A JUDGE CHASED CROOKS

The Actions of Jurist Misunderstood by a Michigan Crowd.

St. Joseph Mich., Aug. 7.— Albert Akers, circuit judge at Quincy, Ill., didn't act like a dignitary of the bench yesterday, when, after discovering that his pockets had been picked, he fastened his gaze on two men whom he suspected and started after them on the run. Judge Akers was "touched" for $34 cash and a certificate of deposit of $800. A half minute after the robbery he missed his cash.

He saw two well dressed young men running away and his suspicions were at once fastened on them. Judge Akers forgot his three score years and began chase under full steam. The suspects then began to dodge in and out among the crowd. At the first turn the judge thought he had made a landing, but the fugitive was just a little too quick for him, and instead he grabbed a woman. The young woman's dignity was hurt, and thinking that Judge Akers was a pickpocket himself, attacked him with her parasol. The next time a little child brought the pursuer to a standstill and the quarry again disappeared.

Then came worse trouble for the judge. The crowd not understanding his quick movements, adopted the notion that he was trying to escape from the officers, and when he came to a full stop he was seized by several persons. Explantions brought offers to aid him to continue the search, but the pickpockets got away.

A PASTOR IS STRICKEN

At Funeral and Dies Following a Relative's Obsequies.

Alton, Ill., Aug. 7.—Father William J. Quinlan, pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic church at Crawfordsville, Ind., die dsuddenly here yesterday.

Father Quinlan was called to Alton a week ago to attend the funeral of a sister's child, and when here was taken ill. His death is believed to have been due to an operation performed a year ago.

Father Quinlan had been in charge of the church here since April, 1903, taking the place of Father John Dempsey, who died in his pulpit while preaching the funeral services of a parishioner.

YOUNG SOCIETY GIRL IS DEAD

Dancing Brought On Typhoid Fever and Death.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 7.—Miss Rosa Zipp, a well known society girl and prominent in church and charity circles, died here yesterday of typhoid fever, brought on, the physicians say, by excessive dancing.

A few days before she was stricken she made the trip from here to Cincinnati and return on the steamer Peters Lee and spent much of the time in dancing.

The night before the boat arrived here she danced with friends nearly all night. She was taken ill the next day.

NO SLEEP FOR 25 YEARS.

Man with Continual Grief Sits in Chair, Wide Awake.

Erie, Pa.—Joseph Root, a hermit resident of Presque isle peninsula, claims he has not slept in 25 years, and those who have become interested in the case believe his story.

A number of well known physicians examined him. They say he is in a healthy condition and he was awake all the time they observed him. His close friends also vouch for his story.

Drugs have been administered, but have no effect on Root. The man has lived for a long time on the peninsula and tells an interesting story.

He says that about 25 years ago two dear relatives were killed suddenly in a railroad accident. He suffered so much from shock that he gave up the idea of sleep, and now remains in a chair all night with his eyes wide open.

After his rest in the chair he feels as much refreshed in the morning as if he had enjoyed a good night's sleep.

CYCLONE INJURES TWO

CLEAR LAKE, IA., INHABITANTS SEE TWISTER LONG BEFORE IT STRIKES.

ONE MAN REPORTED TO BE KILLED

Intense Heat Precedes the Storm—The Tornado Causes Damage and Injuries in Several Illinois Towns.

Mason City, Iowa, Aug. 7.—Clear Lake, ten miles west of this city was struck by cyclone at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. As a result Mrs. C. M. Quimby and Miss Helen Harrison, the latter of DesMoines, are seriously injured, and about a dozen residences demolished.

The cyclone was seen fully a half hour before it struck. Its appearance was funnel shaped and rolled in the air until it hit the outskirts of the town, when it dropped and commenced the work of devastation.

Among the residences damaged and destroyed are those of Mrs. Anna Temple, Dr. Clock, A. W. Wood W. W. Choates, Dr. Lafferty, Mrs. C. M. Quimby, C. B. Christians, S. J. Clausen and D. H. Campbell. North of Clear Lake large barns were destroyed.

From Lake Mills and Hanlontown come reports of destruction.

At Hanlontown one man was reported killed. All wires are down. Preceding the cyclone there was intense heat.

Houses Unroofed Near Galesburg.

Galesburg, Ill., Aug. 7.—A tornado passed diagonally across this county at noon yesterday ten miles east of here, accompanied by heavy hail and electricity.

At Oneida a number of stores were unroofed and small buildings overturned.

At Dahinda stores of Dean Smith and W. G. Sargent were damaged by lightning.

At Williamsfield the front of the bank was blown in, and windows all over the place were broken by the hail, while small animals were killed.

Great damage to crops all along the line of the storm resulted, much of it being beaten into the ground.

The telephone system in the east part of the county was demoralized so that the full extent of the damage can not be learned.

Hail at Canton, Ill.

Canton, Ill., Aug. 7.—The worst hailstorm ever known in this section passed over the city from the northwest yesterday afternoon, accompanied by heavy rain and severe electrical disturbances.

Hailstones covered the ground and much damage was done to corn and other crops. The tract covered by the storm was about two miles wide. No injury to persons or damage to buildings is reported.

Wires Down, Trees Uprooted.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7.—Central Illinois was hit by a severe storm late yesterday afternoon. A terrific rain fell and the wind blew a gale. Wires were prostrated, trees uprooted, much damage done. Tonight a portion of the city is in darkness, the street lights having been put out of business.

Here Clarence Sturgeon killed three men in a fight about Daisy Jackson, and here the Jackson woman killed herself later. Then four other women committed suicide.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8th

And for 5 Hours Only—From 9 to 11 a. m, 2 to 5 p. m.—we will sell

REGULAR 8⅓c ELITE BATISTES

We bought 50 pieces of these Batistes from Swefford Bros, Kansas City, Mo., in their closing out and change of ownership sale, at a great big reduction in price. This price for Thursday is less than we, or any other merchant can go to the manufacturers and buy for at the closest figures. The price of raw cotton at the present is such as to really permit this being a 10c grade, but we quote the minimum comparison in preference. You'll find us ever ready to underestimate, rather than to overestimate values. The patterns are selected from the choicest productions and embrace floral effects, dots, stripes and figures on white grounds.

5¼c Yd.

As a protection against sales to other merchants at this low price we are compelled to limit the amount purchased by any customer to 24 yards.

COST JAPAN 60,000 LIVES

Praises General Stoessel's Defense of Port Arthur.

Paris, Aug. 7.—Capt. Tsunoda, the Japanese military attache here, who, while on the staff of Gen. Nogi, conducted the negotiationss for the surrender of Port Arthur, in an open letter today defends Gen. Stoessel, the defender of the fortress, on the eve of the latter's trial by court martial for surrendering to the Japanese.

All the Russians' food was exhausted, and the 20,000 Russians under arms were, he said, in no condition to fight. Gen. Stoessel, according to the Japanese officer, might have held out for a fortnight longer, but the result would have been an inevitable massacre, in which it would have been difficult to distinguish combatants from non-combatants.

Capt. Tsunoda said: "If others forget it, we remember that Port Arthur cost us 60,000 lives by gunfire alone. We dug forty kilometers of parallels and expended 30,000,000 rounds of ammunition. European history chronicles the glorious capitulation of Port Arthur, and it is so considered in Japan."

PICTURES IN SALOONS

Cause Outrages By Blacks, Says Southern Woman.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 7.—Suggestive pictures on the walls of southern saloons are the main causes of the fearful assaults made on southern women by negroes, according to Mrs. Nannie Curtis, of Texas, who is attending the Epworth assembly in Lincoln. Mrs. Curtis, who is national organizer of the Women's Christian Temperance union, said yesterday, in a pulpit address at the assembly:

"The saloons have robbed us white women of our loved ones, of our homes, and now they have robbed us of our clothes and hung us up on the walls of saloons to inflame the passions of drunken black brutes."

CRACKED WITH UMBRELLA

Veteran of Civil War Fell Dead Telling of It.

Marion, Ohio, Aug. 7.—When Joseph Wilson and Peter Johnson, both past 60, met at Prospect yesterday afternoon Wilson struck Johnson over the head with an umbrella, inflicting a slight scalp wound. They were arrested by Marshal Lauer, a son-in-law of Johnson. Wilson pleaded guilty to fighting, but Johnson said "not guilty."

An hour later, when at a village store telling the story of the encounter, Johnson fell dead. Dr. Finefrock, his physician, says death was due to heart trouble brought on by excitement.

Wilson held a grudge against Johnson, who had succeeded in having part of his pension transferred to Mrs. Wilson, who is separated from her husband.

You Will Be PRESSED FOR MONEY
Oftener Because You Have No Advertising Bills to Pay than Because You Have!

Many a business man has been surprised to find that his biggest advertising bills were the easiest ones to pay.

This is always true, assuming that they are contracted in buying advertising space in the best newspaper medium in his field. It would, of course, never be true if poor judgment were used in the planning and executing of the advertising campaign.

In the cases of prosperous merchants it always happens that big advertising bills and big bank balances grow together, out of the same publicity campaigns. Non-prosperous merchants—and half-prosperous ones—may prove the truth of this matter in a practical way, and in their own experiences.

We are accustomed to seeing BIG STORES filled with customers all the time—the direct result of BIG ADVERTISING EXPENDITURES. But we do not so often see the small stores and shops crowded. Too many of them are content to get the "overflow" patronage, the "happened-in" people, the people who go to "the nearest place."

Any "little store" whose advertising expenditures, for newspaper space, are doubled this year will find its sales and profits correspondingly increased. Eben a small increase of expenditure, in the right direction, for publicity, will bring a notable quickening of store actibity, store profits.

Effective, adequate advertising not only pays for itself—it pays for increased equipment and all that goes with a bigger store and growing store-needs.

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe! Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of childbirth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain.

"GIRL WITH THE RED HAT"

Released From Workhouse to Be Taken to Washington.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Louise Fennimore, a strikingly handsome young woman, known here as "The Girl With the Red Hat," and Albert Curry, will be brought to this city from Cincinnati and tried on a charge of robbery, having just been released from the workhouse at Cincinnati.

It is alleged that it was the custom of the woman to make the acquaintance of a stranger on the street and suggest that they take a drive through the parks. About this time Curry, with his vehicle, would appear. After a short drive the woman would say she wanted to stop at a business place and would disappear. The stranger would then discover he had been robbed.

Leon Desmond, of West Virginia, who claimed he was robbed of $200, had appeared against the two prisoners here. While waiting in the criminal court the prisoners walked out and disappeared. They were arrested in Cincinnati on a similar charge and sentenced to the workhouse.

THIS GIRL "GOT THERE"

She Started to Work for Only Six Dollars a Week.

Six years ago, says Nellie Ryan in the Workers' Magazine, I started to work for a large mercantile house as a footer of sales sheets, at a salary of $6 per week. I had just been graduated from school, therefore had no experience in this or any other line of work. I footed long columns of figures every day from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. and sometimes 9 p. m. for one year and a half, until adding machines were installed.

Then I was promoted from one line of work to another, until now I have tripled my salary.

When I was earning $6 per week I gave my employer $6 worth of work with 6 per cent interest, and also gave him the best I could do all the time.

Of the clerks who were working with me at first there are none earning so good a salary as I am. They became satisfied with their capabilities too soon, and did not show enough of interest in their work. This is the cause of their failure.

POTATOES WILL BE SCARCE

Local Supply of Home Grown Potatoes Is Nearly Gone.

This is the kind of season that makes lots of business for the commission houses, says the Parsons Sun. The scarcity of fruits and vegetables in certain parts of the country makes them dependent upon other localities for provisions of this sort, and the men who ship and handle such goods profit accordingly.

About the most surprising feature of the local condition is the fact that the local crop of potatoes is virtually all gone, and from now on spuds will be shipped in. This is much different from the usual conditions. Ordinarily the crop of home grown potatoes suffices for local consumption until late in December, and it is not until that time that it is found necessary to supplement the supply by shipments from outside.

This year, however, the local commission firm expects to begin shipping in potatoes next week. This has been a poor season for tubers. Those which were planted early were cut down three times by frost. The vines rallied and managed to live, but they didn't produce many potatoes. The fruit failed to set on.

Better Than the Mule.

At a dinner the other night little Algy offered a toast to women. Said Algernon: Here's to woman, beautiful, fascinating woman. Made after man, and has been after him ever since. Ha! Ha!" "And here's to man," responded the ingenuous debutante. "Man is the paragon of animals. On his own ground he surpasses the lion in magnanimity, the fox in acumen, the parrot in wit, the monkey in versatility, the ant in thrift, the spider in all that goes to make it a valued member of society. Briefly, man is more of a success than the mule." She vowed that, inspired by Algy, she made it up right off the wheel. At any rate, none of the other women present has as yet lauded it either in the ladies' home journals or "Heart to Heart Talks with Women," so maybe she did. She is clever enough about other things, dear knows.

A NEW PARTY REFORMER

COL. DAVE BALL SAYS HE IS OUT FOR THE GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION.

THINKS HIS CHANCE IS EXCELLENT

Not in Favor of "Blue Laws," Whatever That May Mean—Would Not Be Surprised if Roosevelt Came Out for Bryan.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—The democratic party of Missouri needs reforming, according to Col. Dave Ball, of Piko county.

On the same equally good authority Col. Ball is the right man to do the work.

At the Laclede hotel Col. Ball announced to a reporter that he had about decided to enter the race for the democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"I have canvassed the situation carefully," said the colonel "with the result that I am more than pleased with my chances. If I did not think I could win, I would not enter the fight."

"Have you any particular platform or idea on which you will appeal for votes?" asked the reporter.

"No," he answered, except that I want to bring the party back to good old-fashioned days of Crittendon, Marmaduke and Woodson.

"We have strayed away from the policies of those great leaders. Now I have no criticism to make of the present-day leaders of the Missouri democracy. They are all right, but they don't run the state according to my notions.

"In the first place, I believe in the fullest measure of liberty for all. I don't believe we should tolerate violation of the laws, nor do I think that the state should be too strict in enforcing blue statutes that nobody ever intended should be obeyed.

"It wouldn't be right for a man to chastise his wife in public, nor vice versa, but privately they should have an absolute right to settle their differences."

Col. Ball did not wish to discuss specific laws that he regarded as obsolete.

"I believe," said he, "that we should encourage the running of street cars on Sunday and allow all sorts of innocent amusements. There is a growing disposition against this, I understand, but it doesn't find any favor with me."

Col. Ball is Missouri's original Bryan democrat. He tried to get the nomination for governor once before, but failed by a narrow margin. He served one term as a member of the senate.

He has much ability as a spell-binder and has been heard on democratic platforms in Missouri for twenty five years.

Col. Ball has no doubt that Bryan will be the next democratic standard bearer. He is also positive that Mr. Bryan will be elected.

This is the way he has figured out the strength of his prophecy:

"The money powers hate Roosevelt and Bryan. In the republican party that influence can prevent the nomination of Roosevelt or any man who stands for Roosevelt's policies.

"For instance Wall street can corral the delegations from the southern states and vote them almost as they please. Coupled with strong eastern support, the anti-Roosevelt men can practically dictate the nomination.

"In that event it would not surprise me to see Mr. Roosevelt declare for Mr. Bryan. Of course, Mr. Bryan's election would then result as a logical consequence.

"They say President Roosevelt is for Taft. Well, if he is I wouldn't give much for Mr. Taft's chances.

"All loyal Missouri democrats are for Bryan.

"We would be disloyal and shortsighted if we considered any other man for the 1908 nomination.

At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself. Sold by Arlington Pharmacy.

Reunited by a Burglar

By L. Agnes Morley Cowles.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Cynthia walked steadily out of the parlor and up the stairs, but when she reached the hall above she stopped and leaned against the banister. The chandeliers were lighted, but somehow she could not see well, and her limbs were trembling. She gathered herself up in a moment, however, and went down the hall to her room.

Harold was waiting for her in the parlor, and she and Harold had quarreled.

That afternoon Cynthia had gathered together all the things that Harold had ever given her—that is, all the things that were left, for if the perished flowers, and the candy, the saucers of ice-cream and the tickets to entertainments could have been collected, there would have been a goodly pile to add to the list.

She rang the bell now, as soon as she entered her room, and to Annie, the maid who answered the summons, she said briefly: "Send William up to get this box, and tell him to deliver it to the address at once." Then, when the maid went, she gathered up the letters and went downstairs.

As she passed through the door a small envelope slipped, unnoticed, from one of the packages of letters and fluttered to the floor. It lay half-concealed under the edge of the dresser, and it was not until two evenings later that Cynthia discovered it.

She was a pale, hollow-eyed young woman that evening, in spite of all her brave efforts to keep up, and her hand trembled as she picked up the envelope, yellowed by age, and held it to the light. It contained a valentine that Harold had sent her years before, and there was a quiver about her strained mouth, and a mist before her eyes, as she drew it from its covering.

The valentine was a flimsy little lace paper affair, with cupids and pink rosebuds on the face of it, and behind them a verse was cunningly hidden, after the manner of valentines. Cynthia lifted the cupids and the rosebuds, holding the lace like a veil before the printed words, and read:

"You are my sweetheart, dear one,
The joy of my life,
And sometime, when we're older,
You shall be my cherished wife."

The hot blood rushed to her face as she read the words now. When she had received the valentine she had not been surprised or shocked at its daring declaration, for she could not remember the time when she and Harold had not planned to be married when they should be old enough. Now, they had quarreled, and had separated with the understanding that henceforth they were to be to each other only as mere acquaintances.

When the firm of which Harold was junior partner had first offered him this opportunity to go abroad, he had refused, because it would take him so long away from her; but now it did not matter where he went, and when they had offered the opportunity again he had accepted it gladly enough.

It was Cynthia's first thought to send the valentine to Harold's address in England, but she soon decided that such an act would look childish, and as though she were trying to attract his thoughts to her. In all probability he would never look over the returned gifts and letters, and if he should he surely would not miss this little thing.

Her next thought was to burn the valentine, and two days before she might have done so, but to-day, with grief and loneliness at her heart growing every hour more poignant and hard to bear, and Harold far away upon the sea, she could not destroy this last frail relic of their love.

So the cupids and roses, and the crumpled lace, and the sentimental rhyme, all wet with a woman's agonized tears and kisses, were smoothed carefully out and put back in the envelope with its direction in a boyish hand. Then the envelope was laid away in a carved ebony box, with a blue satin lining. The box was put in a drawer in Cynthia's rosewood desk, and the drawer was locked securely with a slender silver key.

A year went by with lagging feet. It was a February night, frosty and still, as Harold Cushman stepped from the midnight train to the station platform and glanced around at the familiar landmarks of his native town, showing distinctly in the moonlight.

It was a full mile from the station to his home up-town, but in spite of the fact that his journey had been long, and that it was already midnight and cold, for some unaccountable reason Harold preferred to walk.

As he neared the finer residence portion of the town, his steps slowed a little, and, before a yellow colonial house with white trimmings, he stopped abruptly. It was not his home, for the Cushman house was farther up the street and was built of red brick. There was no sign of life about the place.

But the young man saw more than another standing by him might have seen. He saw a room inside the house—a long, large, pleasant room, with pretty windows and cozy cushioned window-seats. The gas-light and fire-light shone softly on the polished floor, on the handsome rugs and chairs, the books and vases and choice pictures. He seemed to be standing there by the fireplace alone, with a fierce tumult in his heart, and then he heard the rustle of a skirt upon the stairs, and a woman, young and beautiful and gowned in white, stood before him holding out to him some letters and a ring that sparkled in the light. Her face had been so cold—so cruelly cold and beautiful—his Cynthia's face! Harold stood there a little longer, and then, not seeing very well, he went on up the street.

He had gone only a few rods when his foot struck something lying on the walk. It was square and dark, and, picking it up, he discovered that it was a small black box. He started to open it, but hearing footsteps coming rapidly down a side street, he dropped the box into his ulster pocket and strode on to the welcome awaiting him at the red brick house.

It was late when Harold Cushman slept that night, and late when he awakened in his own familiar room the next morning. When he went downstairs he found the family already assembled at the breakfast table and excitedly discussing a burglary which had taken place in the village between 11 and 12 the previous evening.

The yellow and white colonial house had been entered, and two watches, considerable silver and some money had been stolen. Cynthia's watch had been taken from the dressing-table in her room, and her desk had been broken open. It had been a bold venture for a moonlit night, and the town was stirred over the affair.

As his sister finished reading the account of the burglary, Harold remembered the black box, and hastily excusing himself, he mounted the stairs, three steps at a time. His ulster was hanging over a chair in his room, as he had left it the night before, and diving into one of the capacious pockets he drew out the box which he had found in the street. It was of ebony and exquisitely carved. He lifted the lid, expecting to find the box either empty or containing jewels, but it was not empty and neither did it contain jewels. Against the delicate blue lining lay a little old envelope and, turning it over, the man saw that it was addressed to Cynthia in his own well-remembered hand. There was a strange clutching at his heart when he took out the tear-stained bit of lace paper, with its cupids and its roses, and read again the foolish little verse.

She Must Look Happy.

It was two mornings later. Cynthia stood by a window in her room looking listlessly out at the snowy expanse of lawn. Her stolen watch had been recovered the day before, but her ebony box had not been found, and she could not well advertise for a box containing an old valentine.

She had heard that Harold was at home, and looking well and particularly happy, but she had not seen him. She must look happy, too, when they should meet, for she would rather die than have him guess how her heart ached.

The door-bell rang sharply and she heard some one go through the lower hall to answer the ring, but she did not take notice of what was happening until Annie rapped gently at her door. "For you, Miss Cynthia," the maid said, looking on and handing to her mistress a large white pasteboard box. Her fingers trembled as she unfastened the cord and lifted the cover. In the white tissue paper lay a great bunch of fragrant violets with their rich green leaves, and, nestled in among them was a small white envelope. Opening it, the girl drew out her cherished and lost valentine, and with it a sheet of paper. On the paper, in Harold's strong, manly hand, was written: "When I see you, I will explain to you how I came by this valentine, which I sent you years ago. The fact that you have treasured it has given me hope and courage. We do not now need to wait to be olde before the joyous fulfillment of the last line of the valentine's verse. I shall come to you this evening."

He came, and stood again in that large, pleasant room, waiting for Cynthia. He heard again the rustle of her skirt upon the stair, and looking up, he saw her coming down. She wore a gown of white, as she had done that other night, so filled with pain for both of them, but his violets were in her hair and against her breast, and, unabashed, the love of him was shining in her eyes.

PLAN NOVEL REUNION

ALL THE DESCENDANTS OF DECLARATION SIGNERS WANTED.

Scheme Is to Get Them All Together in One Grand Rally on July 4 at the Jamestown Exposition.

Washington.—All of the descendants, and especially the lineal sons and daughters, of the 55 stout-hearted men who signed the Declaration of Independence, are invited by the Jamestown Exposition and the Thomas Jefferson Memorial association to gather at Jamestown in a grand reunion on July 4.

The plans are still somewhat tentative, but are being mapped out on a scale that promises to make it one of the conspicuous celebrations of the country. Speakers of national renown are on the programme, which will include also the reading of the Declaration of Independence by a descendant of Thomas Jefferson, and music by a trained chorus of 500 voices.

Former President Grover Cleveland has given the scheme his enthusiastic indorsement and the governors of a score of states have promised to be present.

In the meantime the officers of the association are hunting diligently for the descendants of the original declaration-makers. All who can trace their lineage from the 55 are invited to send their names and cross sections of their family tree to William Shields McKean, secretary, in the Ouray building, Eighth and G streets, in this city.

Ultimately the association plans to erect a permanent memorial here to Jefferson and the other signers. All of the officers, firmly convinced that "blood will tell," are counting confidently on finding that the descendants of the 55 have proved to be such substantial citizens that they can put up the memorial from their own purses without assistance from congress or the public.

Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama is the acting president, William Shields McKean of New Jersey is secretary and Jesse B. Wilson, president of the Lincoln National bank of this city, is treasurer. On the board of governors are Alton B. Parker of New York, Josiah Quincy of Massachusetts, Charles Emory Smith of Pennsylvania, Mark A. Smith of Arizona, Horace S. Cummings of New Hampshire and D. L. D. Grange of Rhode Island.

Cremation More in Favor.

London.—According to statistics, cremation of the bodies of the dead is becoming more and more popular in the United Kingdom, where 14 cremation furnaces are in existence. During the past year 743 bodies were cremated, a considerable increase over the preceding year, and of these 438 were burned in the district of London at the establishments of Golden Green and Woking. The other cremations took place at Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow and Birmingham. Since cremation was introduced in England about 20 years ago the number of bodies burned yearly has quadrupled.

Puts Ban on All Nostrums.

Iowa Falls, Ia.—The city council has handed a "lemon" to dispensers of nostrums and so-called medical literature by passing an ordinance that forbids such nuisances in this city in the future. The ordinance bars the pernicious custom of distributing from house to house or displaying in public places and on the streets patent medicine nostrums and all literature referring to private diseases and other subjects that have a tendency to corrupt the minds of the young.

BEGGARS SEEK SMITH MILLIONS.

William Smith Mason, an Heir, Besieged by Letter Writers.

Chicago.—William Smith Mason of Evanston, heir to $6,000,000 of the "Silent" Smith estate, is being besieged by begging letters and communications from promoters who urge him to invest. These epistles are being turned over to his secretary, Miss Helen Stone, by whom they will be transferred to the waste basket.

More than 1,000 alluring missives have been received by the heir to the second largest share of the Smith estate. The writers ask for everything from charity to investments in perpetual motion devices, and the sums they require range from 25 cents to $5,000,000. All base their appeals on the fact that Mr. Mason has become "a very rich man" and should do something to perpetuate his memory after his death.

One confident promoter offers Mr. Mason an opportunity to "get in on the ground floor" of a plan to control the shipping interests of the entire Mississippi valley. Canals and railroads are to be brought under his control at the trifling cost of $5,000,000. The perpetual motion inventor assures Mr. Mason that he has the only device which will generate its own power and solve the smoke nuisance.

A woman writes to the heir stating that her family is a veritable preserve of budding genius, but that it cannot develop in a cold climate. If he will only finance the proposition, she will take her family south, where its outcroping genius may come into full bloom. A Wisconsin woman who admits that marriage is a failure offers him a "chance" on a sofa pillow which she is raffling.

Mr. Mason has declined to peruse these epistles personally, but is intrusting them to his secretary, with the understanding that her decision is to be final.

BID FOR HOME OF JOAN OF ARC.

Sothern and Marlowe Would Present It to New York.

London.—Learning that the house in the city of Orleans in which Joan of Arc once lived is to be demolished, E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe have telegraphed the mayor of Orleans offering to purchase it in view of transferring it to New York, where they will present it as a gift to Central park. The mayor has telegraphed the reply that he laid the matter before the city council.

Mr. Frohman also is competing for the house. He has telegraphed the mayor of Orleans offering to buy it. He says if he is successful he will present the house to London in Pauline Chase's name, and will erect it at his own expense in Kensington gardens. He adds:

"I take a sentimental interest in Kensington gardens because Barrie says Peter Pan lived there. I also take an interest in Joan of Arc, and would like to see her house there."

Consumption of Pulp Wood.

Washington.—The census bureau has prepared a preliminary report on the consumption of pulp wood in the United States for the calendar year ended December 31, 1906, which shows that during that period 3,646,693 cords were used, as compared with 3,192,123 cords utilized in the previous year. This is an increase of 154,570 cords. The principal wood used in 1906 was domestic spruce, of which 1,785,680 cords were consumed. Classified according to methods of reducing into pulp, the mechanical process took 1,197,780 cords; the sulphite process, 1,944,136 cords, and the soda process, 504,777 cords. The figures cover the operations of 250 mills in 1906 and 237 in 1905.

A MAN FALLS 600 FEET

ROPE BROKE AND HE ROLLED TO THE BOTTOM OF THE MOUNTAIN.

SUSTAINED A SCORE OF BRUISES

He and a Companion Had Started Out to Rob an Eagles' Nest Which Was Built in a Break in Rugged Rocks.

Frank G. Schrieber, aged 21 years, son of W. M. Schrieber, a Short Line car inspector, living at 912 Conejos street, had a narrow escape from being dashed to death yesterday on Eagle Cliff, while fighting a large female eagle after robbing its nest of two young birds, writes a Colorado Springs correspondent. Schrieber partly fell, rolled and slid down the side of the mountain, which is rather precipitous, for 600 feet, and sustained scores of bruises, cuts and skin abrasions by striking the sharp edges of rocks in his descent.

Schrieber was assisted in robbing the eagle's nest by a chum, Andrew Weise. Eagle Cliff is over 700 feet high, and the nest was built in a break in the rocks 100 feet from the top.

Schrieber and Weise climbed to the top of the mountain, from where the former started down to the nest, holding onto a quarter-inch rope, which the young men had tied around a bowlder at the top.

Schrieber secured one young eagle, but the other flew away. Schrieber tied the captured eagle to the rope and Weise pulled it to the top of the cliff. Weise lowered the rope again so that Schrieber might climb back to the top.

The mother eagle had returned by this time and, discovering the loss of her young, began attacking Schrieber, who held onto the rope with one hand to keep from being swept from the face of the mountain to his death. With his free hand Schrieber pulled his revolver and fought off the eagle, finally striking it so hard that it was killed.

Schrieber then started to climb to the top of the cliff holding onto the rope. The rope broke suddenly at a point weakened by friction against the rocks, and he began falling, sliding and rolling to the bottom of the mountain, where he landed almost unconscious. Schrieber was hurried to town for medical attention.

The dead mother eagle measures 5 feet 5 inches from tip to tip.

FORTUNE FOR THE O'LYNNS.

Dying Hermit of California Said Sons Lived in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md.—There is a fortune of $300,000 in cash and $50,000 in Washington real estate, according to a letter received by Marshal Farnan, waiting for the fortunate sons of W. H. O'Lynn, a hermit, of Fresno, Cal., who died there recently, from the infirmities of old age and hunger.

While breathing his last O'Lynn told of his fortune and declared that his sons were now living in Baltimore, Cincinnati or New Orleans. The Baltimore city directory shows no O'Lynn or Olyn, or any name similar to that of the dead hermit. In one account of the old man's death it is reported that he twice mentioned Baltimore as the home of his sons.

The story of the old man's immense wealth was told only by himself. Mrs. Emma Wilson, who wrote the letter to the marshal, claimed she repeated his statements only. Among his dilapidated effects, according to a newspaper clipping which Mrs. Wilson inclosed, there was found $117.60.

The old man had been in the little town of Fresno about seven years. During most of the time he lived in one room, where he mended umbrellas and parasols during the day and slept at night. He had few friends and talked little. When he did speak it was generally of his wealth. He said that he preferred the isolation of the little room to a life of luxury, which he had enjoyed, and which he was still able to pay for.

Plans Post Offices for Liners.

Washington.—If Second Assistant Postmaster General McCleary succeeds in some plans he has in mind sea post offices will be established on the ships of the Cunard and the French Steamship companies' lines, the only transatlantic liners which are equipped with postal facilities. Overtures have been made to these two companies looking to the equipment of post offices on their ships. Mr. McCleary will go to Europe soon to investigate certain postal affairs. While abroad he will confer with the officers of the two steamship lines and endeavor to complete arrangements by which American and foreign employes will be placed on each one of the vessels of these two lines.

IS TOO FAT TO DROWN.

300 Pound German Floats Like Cork When He Attempts Suicide.

New York.—Discovering after repeated efforts to drown himself, that he floated like a cork, an obese German bent on suicide decided to try to end it all by some other method than that of immersion. His efforts at suicide in the Atlantic basin moved the dock loungers to unfeeling mirth. The unhappy Teuton, who appeared to weigh about 300 pounds, walked to the end of the Porto Rico line pier, and with a last look around jumped into the water.

"It's all over," he said as he took the leap.

But it did not end. Coming up from his dive, the fat man floated face upward. Again and again he tried to dive under the surface, but his body merely rolled over, and each attempt found him floating with his face upward.

He was trying for the fifth time to sink himself when Watchman William Walsh jumped in tnd tied a rope around him and hauled him ashore. He was taken into the boiler room nearby, where he was dried out. While the watchman was deciding what to do with him the German slipped out and disappeared.

HETTY GREEN TO PAY RENT.

No Longer Free Private Office in Chemical Bank.

New York.—Hetty Green will have to pay office rent in future. No provision whatever has been made for her in the new banking home of the Chemical National bank. For many years the "richest woman in the world," who is one of the largest stockholders of the bank, had a private office in the old bank building rent free. She will now have to content herself with sharing the handsome quarters provided for all the women stockholders and depositors on the first floor.

Whether or not Mrs. Green is dissatisfied with this arrangement is not known.

The new building is built of granite and marble, only three stories high. It cost $600,000. Six different kinds of marble imported from Italy have been used in decorating the interior, and figures of Ceres, Boreas, Helios and Neptune, representing earth, air, fire and water, join the arches. The doors are of bronze, artistically molded.

ODD DROUGHT FOR A TOWN.

Grant, Mich., Will Go Dry Till Some One Builds Hotel.

Grant, Mich.—At a special meeting of the Grant village council the following resolution was adopted by a vote of 5 to 1:

"Resolved, That we, the council of the village of Grant, Newaygo county, Mich., do declare that we will hereafter approve of no saloon bonds within the corporate limits of said village of Grant, except when the proposed saloon business is to be connected with a hotel, as hotel bar, such hotel to be constructed of brick, stone or other substantial material, other than a frame building, and steam heated.

"Provided, that whenever any responsible party or person shall own, in fee simple, a suitable location within said village, and shall contract for the erection thereon of a suitable hotel building, to be erected within three months of the date of said contract, of sufficient proportions, then we, the said village council, will immediately grant a license for a saloon, to be conducted in connection with a hotel.

"Provided, further, that a copy of the contract, giving specifications for the building proposed to be erected, shall be filed with the clerk of said village council."

Grant has long ago outgrown her hotel service, every day from one to ten persons being unable to obtain accommodations. This condition has so interfered with the welfare of the town that the council has said "to the first man who contracts to give us ample care for our growing hotel business we will immediately grant a liquor license. Until such time, we go dry."

As Grant, with her numerous little industries and a genuine building boom now on, is a splendid location for a first-class hotel, it is probable that the field will not be open ten days.

CONFIDENCE IN THE HOME.

Relations That Should Exist Between Parent and Child.

There can be no true understanding between parent and child without perfect confidence. Confidence is the basis of all beneficial human relatoins. Those whom we suspect we do not admit to the inner courts of our trust. If the child suspects that you are hiding something or are asking for more than you are willing to do, complete confidence cannot exist in the home.

The best proof of complete confidence between parent and child is furnished when the child tells the parent its troubles and asks for advice on matters which most children dread to mention to father and mother. Then is the great opportunity to bind the child's heart to yours with hooks of steel. As the child approaches the years of early youth, certain matters of health, morals and conduct must be explained. The parent must do it or some one else will. The "some one else" may do it in such a way that the child's moral nature will be dwarfed and endangered. That period is the crucial period of the child's life. A kind word then, in season, will do more to make the child your own for life than anything else you can do. But the way must be prepared by long years of perfect trust and soul communion between parent and child. The information must be given calmly, sympathetically and clearly.—Binghamton Press.

A YEAR WITHOUT A TRIAL

MAN FROM MISSOURI HAS PUT IN THE TIME IN A MEXICO DUNGEON.

CHARGE IS HE MUTILATED COWS

Ambassador Thompson Takes Up Case of C. C. Walker, Stockman, Well Known in Missouri and Southwest.

Ambassador Thompson at Mexico City has taken up with the Mexican government the case of C. C. Walker, an American citizen, whose home is in Missouri, and who is known in San Antonio, who has been confined in Belem prison over a year without trial on a charge of maiming a large number of fine cows that had been shipped from Missouri to Mexico on the order of a son of President Diaz, says the San Antonio Express.

Carlos Bee, of this city has been retained by Walker to defend him and has been working on the case for some time. The matter was taken up by the ambassador on an appeal from Walker's relatives, who live at Columbia, Mo., to the state department.

The case is one of the most remarkable that the United States government has had to deal with.

Walker is a raiser of fine milch cows. He bid on a contract to furnish a number of animals to President Diaz's son. Another Missouri stock raiser Pipes bid lower and got the contract. He shiped the cows and by a remarkable coincidence the same night that the animals were passing through Saltillo in a freight train Walker was passing through on a passenger train bound for the United States. His train stopped 20 minutes in Saltillo.

While the two trains were in Saltillo someone broke into the car and cut the udders off the cows. The crime was charged to Walker, it being claimed that he had left the Pullman, gone to the freight yard, put on a pair of overalls, mutilated the cows and after changing clothing had returned to his berth in the Pullman, all in the space of 20 minutes.

Unconscious of his peril, Walker returned to Mexico on business and was immediately arrested and thrown into the Belem prison, where he has remained ever since without trial.

A good deal of testimony was produced by the Mexican government, but the porter on the Pullman car testified that Walker had not left the car in Saltillo. The conductor, who said he had seen a man though to be Walker leave the train and return at Saltillo, when confronted by Walker, said he was not the man.

Mr. Bee has made several trips to Mexico in connection with the case, and it now passed into the hands of Ambassador Thompson, who will demand an immediate trial and a square deal for the prisoner.

WAS A NEW KIND TO HIM.

Robber Has a Queer Experience on a Kansas Farm.

"Years and years ago, when I was a bad man," said the reformer, "I was knocking about the state of Kansas and heard of a wealthy farmer who always kept his money in his house. It was in my line of business to relieve him of it. I spent a month preparing the plant and then started out to do business. On the way to the farmer's I held up a traveler and took $200 off of him. An hour later I had effected entrance into the house and was spooking about when some one suddenly grabbed me, and two minutes later I was bound hand and foot. It was the old farmer himself that got me and after he had turned me over he said:

"'My son, this is bad business.'

"'I was driven to it by poverty,' I replied.

"'You should have depended upon the Lord to see you through. I am afraid you have little reverence for Christianity and I shall pray with you.'

"Thereupon he knelt beside me and held forth for two mortal hours without a break. When he finally let up he asked if I felt as sinful as before. I gladly replied that I didn't, whereupon he proceeded to go through me and rob me clear down to the key of my trunk. When he had finished he unbound me and said:

"'I am glad you came. I think I have done you good.' In fact, if you will come back a second time I believe you will see your way clear to becoming one of us.'

"He had $360 of my money, but I never went back for it. I have often wondered over the affair, however. I thought I knew all kinds of religions by name, at least, but one that permitted a man to pray over a robber for two hours and then do him out of his last copper was a new one on me."—Chicago News.

AN AUTOMOBILE IN THE CASE

Mystery in the Oklahoma City Murder Is Increasing.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 7.—As a result of the coroner's investigation of the murder of Wilbur Gunreth, whose body was found west of this city in a corn field last week with both ears severed from his head, B. F Thomas, white, and Hawthorne Lallery, black, suspects, were released, the evidence against them not being sufficient to hold them.

Three important witnesses were before the coroner. J. W. Stokesbury and H. L. Aken, two farmers living near where the body of Gunreth was found, were fishing on the night of the murder, and they said that about 12 o'clock they heard voices at a distance.

One of the men was threatening the other and told him that he would knock his head off. Just at this time a train passed between Stokesbury and Aken and the others and shut off all sound.

When the train had passed they heard no more. D. A. Scriber, who lives along the road and also near where the body of Gunreth was found, said that on that same night he heard two shots fired.

It is practically certain the officers think that the body of Gunreth was carried in an automobile to where it was found. The police are now investigating the whereabouts of an automobile party that is known to have been out that night.

STORMS AROUND CHICAGO

Does Great Damage to Telegraph Wires Leading Southwest and North.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Because of a severe local storm in various sections of the Mississippi valley during the last eighteen hours, all telegraph facilities are greatly impaired.

Last night during a remarkably severe storm that passed over this city the Western Union and Postal companies lost the greater part of their wires to the southwest and north.

The storm was one of the most severe of recent years. Much damage was done to trees and shrubbery and small outhouses.

Funeral of Mr. W. E. McCarty.

The funeral of W. E. McCarty, who died quite suddenly Monday night, was held from the family residence, 513 East Fourth street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. J F. Casrey, pastor of the Fifth Street M. E. church, South, conducting the services.

There was a large attendance of friends, and several beautiful floral tributes rested on the casket. The interment was in the city cemetery, and the pallbearers were selected from the A. O. U. W., of which Mr. McCarty had long been a member.

WANTS BACK ON FORCE

Talk of Quo Warranto Proceedings for Rozzelle.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 7.—Capt. Weber, who was dropped from the Kansas City police department in the recent shakeup, called on Governor Folk last evening and asked his help toward being reinstated. He said he thought he had been dealt with harshly, and would be willing to accept a position below a captaincy.

The governor told the ex-captain that the matter of taking him back rested entirely with the police commissioners, and that he would not interfere.

There is talk of bringing a quo warranto proceeding in the supreme court to test the legality of Governor Folk's action in removing Frank F. Rozzelle from the board of police commissioners. Mr. Rozzelle said in Kansas City that he had heard that such a proceeding was contemplated, but he had no part in it.

Won Two of the Three Games.

The Sedalia Blues won two of the three games played with the Parsons Syndicate team here Monday and Tuesday.;

Parsons won the first game Monday, 6 to 1, while Sedalia won the second game the same day, 7 to 6. Sedalia won the third game Tuesday, 6 to 4, in the presence of 600 spectators.

Tomorrow the Blues go to Boonville for a game with the Browns, and the Browns will be here Sunday for a return game. All of the above teams are negroes.

During the last few days the story went abroad among the denizens that Daisy Jackson's ghost haunts "Fatality Row." That was enough. The inmates fled in terror. Today the entire row is deserted.

Dr. J. D. Griffith Improving.

Dr. J. D. Griffith, of Kansas City, well known in Sedalia, who was injured in a motor car accident last Wednesday afternoon and is now in St. Joseph's hospital there, is improving. It was reported last night that he was able to sit up and would be in a condition to leave the hospital in a few days.

REGARDING RAILROADS

WIGHTMAN WANTS AN INQUIRY CONCERNING CHAIRMAN JNO. A. KNOTT.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

It looks now as though the trouble in the state board of railroad and warehouse commissioners may be made the subject of official inquiry. Commissioner Knott, who is at variance with Commissioners Wightman and Oglesby, recently wrote an open letter to the governor, as already announced, calling attention to the differences in the board as to the condition of the Missouri Pacific track and asking the governor to create a commission to look into the merits of the controversy.

Tuesday a letter came to the governor from Commissioner Wightman, in which he referred to Mr. Knott's letter, and then asked the governor to institute inquiry into the official conduct of Commissioner Knott while on the tour of inspection of the road. He suggests in his note that the governor have present at the inquiry Commissioner Oglesby, Secretary Bradbury and members of the train crew. What action, if any, will be taken in connection with this request is yet to be determined.

Train Service Complaints.

Prosecuting Attorney Slate, of Cole county, Tuesday filed an information in the circuit court against the Missouri Pacific railroad, charging it with failure to obey the state law requiring daily passenger service on all lines.

The grand jury last week returned indictments against the company for seven Sundays during which the law has been in effect for failure to operate trains on the Bagnell branch.

This information is to cover last Sunday, and Prosecuting Attorney Slate proposes to file complaint for each Sunday the company fails to comply with the law.

The railroad now has twenty-one indictments and one information to answer here, fourteen being for alleged violation of the eight-hour telegraph law and others arising under the daily train law.

Must Behave on Trains.

Superintendent J. A. Alexander, of the Missouri Pacific, has given instructions to train conductors to turn over passengers or employes to the civil authorities who are guilty of insulting or of indignities toward passengers, says the Jefferson City Tribune.

Heretofore, the custom has been to put such objectionable persons off the train, but the superintendent directs that they be taken to the first station and turned over to the authorities to be prosecuted, unless a special agent of the railroad can be found who is to take charge of them.

Board Met at Mexico.

The state board was in session Tuesday at Mexico, Mo., for the purpose of hearing complaints of the citizens of Farber, Laddonia and Rush Hill against the train service of the Alton at these points.

The complainants claim that under the present schedule they are unable to go to Mexico and return to their homes on the same day.

Automatic Couplers.

The East Sedalia line of the street railway is being overhauled and the low joints raised.

Sam Snow, the Missouri Pacific switch tender at the New York avenue crossing, and wife, left for Nevada this morning to visit.

Dispatcher J. C. Boggs, of the Missouri Pacific at Jefferson City, is taking a lay off this week and has gone to Iowa with his family for a visit with relatives.

Katy passenger train No. 2 was four or five hours late today, being laid out South of Parsons by an accident, the nature of which was not known at the local offices.

N. P. Kemp, of Sedalia, special agent of the Missouri Pacific, was here Monday, says the Jefferson City Tribune, looking after parties who have been stealing from the cars of the railroad company here.

S. I. Harwood, a railway mail clerk running on the Missouri Pacific between St. Louis and Kansas City, who had his left hand painfully lacerated by coming in contact with a mail crane last Friday, is receiving treatment in Sedalia at the home of Dr. Southern, 226 South Grand avenue.

Knights of Columbus Met.

At the Knights of Columbus meeting last night, only routine business was transacted, and that was disposed of as quickly as possible, or account of the hot weather. The council is arranging for an entertainment to be given soon, but nothing definite can be given to the public at this time.

A marriage license was issued in Kansas City Tuesday to John Gustin Love, of Nevada, Mo., aged 31 years, and Margaret Jane Webster, of Sedalia, Mo., aged 23 years.

FINES OF 228 MILLIONS

WHAT MINIMUM PENALTIES WOULD DO TO ROADS AND STANDARD

THE FIGURES FIT UP BIG AMOUNTS

On Basis of Amounts Already Assessed the Total Which May Be Imposed in Cases Pending Would Be $228,960,000

Chicago, Aug. 7.—In regard to the fine of $29,240,000 against the Standard Oil company for receiving rebates, it was pointed out yesterday that some months ago the railroads were given a hint of what might happen to them when the New York Central was convicted of granting one rebate to the Standard and was fined $15,000, which is $5,000 less than the maximum penalty. The prosecution of the New York Central was brought because that road declined to furnish the bureau of corporations with any information in regard to its relations with Standard Oil.

In the case of the Chicago & Alton and all other railroads which have had dealings with the Standard, it is possible if the cases are brought into court that the government will suggest the imposition of the minimum rather than the maximum fines. But even this would be a tremendous penalty.

It is estimated that it would aggregate $75,980,000. If the Standard should be convicted on all counts pending against it and the maximum fine imposed on each count it will have to pay a total of $151,960,000. This, with the railroad fines, will mean an aggregate of $227,960,000 which the government will collect as a result of the prosecutions.

In considering the justice of the action of Judge Landis in imposing the maximum fine upon the Standard Oil company, attention may be called to the fact that the question involved is not so much that of the quantity of oil transported or that of the actual saving on freight rebates which the Standard made. As a matter of fact, the report of the commissioner of corporations estimates that the discriminations saved the Standard only about a quarter of a million dollars yearly.

But this discrimination gave the trust an advantage far above the mere reduction in rate. It insured the success of its monopolistic tactics. An independent refiner would have to pay the open rate while the Standard enjoyed the secret and lower rate, and the difference would enable a lower selling price, to his injury and final destruction.

"I HOPE YOU DIE"

Said the Angry Woman, "Before You Get Home."

Elkhart, Ind., Aug. 7.—With the curse of a woman still ringing in his ears, Ed Maroney went to his death in this city last Sunday. The particulars just came to light yesterday. Maroney went to Benton Harbor, Mich., on Sunday morning and spent the day with friends in seeing sights. On the way back he became involved in a quarrel with a woman on the train. She threatened to stab him with a hatpin, but he merely laughed at her and as he staggered out the door to leave the train she said: "I hope you die before you get home."

Just before entering the Big Four depot the train passes over a trestle that spans the St. Joe river. Maroney thought the train was at the depot. He stepped off and was drowned in the river.

HAU INNOCENT, HE SAYS

Asserts He Saw the Molliter Murder in Kahrlsruhe.

Manheim, Germany, Aug. 7.—Another witness has asserted that Karl Hau, the ex-professor of Roman law at George Washington university, Washington, who was found guilty of the murder of his mother-in-law, Frau Molliter, July 27, and condemned to death, is in reality innocent of the crime.

The name of this new witness is Karl Lindenau. He affirms that at the time of the murder, last November, he was walking behind Frau Molliter and her daughter. He saw the flash of a pistol and one of the women fell. He says the murderer could not possibly have been Hau.

DEEP INTO HIS HEART

Prisoner Tried to Drive the Pencil and Almost Succeeded.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 7.—H. E. Starner, a bartender who is being held at police headquarters on the charge of grand larceny, made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide in his cell yesterday. He placed a lead pencil against his breast, in the region of the heart, and by a series of blows drove it well into the body. It was within a fraction of an inch of the heart when the attempt was discovered and the weapon taken from him.

It required the services of the surgeon to remove the broken pieces of wood and lead from the wound. He will recover.

SWEPT BY TORNADO

Iowa Swept by Fearful Storm—Many Reported Killed.

Albert Lea, Minn., Aug. 7.—A tornado swept across Winnebago county, Iowa, late yesterday, and while reports are conflicting, it is known that one person was killed in Joice village, which was destroyed, and several injured.

Some reports say twenty were killed. The course of the storm was from the northwest to the southeast.

The destruction of property is said to be great. The Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad is out of commission because of the damage done.

King of Siam is Extravagant in the Purchase of Jewelry.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Stories regarding the extravagances of the king of Siam, so far as the purchase of jewelry is concerned, continues to crop out.

Among his recent purchases, it is said, is a gold thimble covered with diamonds and other gems, which is valued at $75,000.

50C A POUND HER DAMAGES

Weighs Woman Who Sues for Breach of Promise.

Philadelphia, Penn., Aug. 7.—Miss Amanda Stufflet, who weighs 250 pounds, got damages at Norristown at the rate of 50 cents a pound in a breach of promise suit which she brought against Daniel Kinsell.

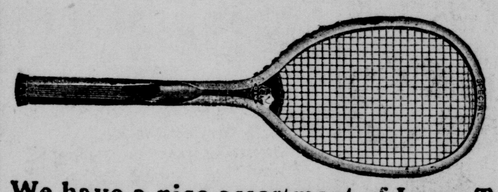

Both live at Royersford. Miss Stufflet is forty-eight years old and has had hard luck in her love affairs. She testified on the witness stand that two other men had "gone back on her," and that when Kinsell gave her the slip she made up her mind that she would not continue to meet the insults of his sex with tame endurance.

She said that Kinsell wanted a housekeeper, but when he saw her he decided he would rather have her for a wife. Miss Stufflet was willing, but Kinsell, who is sixty-eight years old and not so poetic as he once was, got tired of his bargain after a few visits and said the match was off.

The jury gave Miss Stufflet a verdict of $125.

A SPECIAL ELECTION

For Sedalia-Longwood Road District August 22, 1907.

The county court Tuesday afternoon made the following order:

Whereas, the county court of Pettis county did, on the 7th day of May, 1906, (having received the proper petition for same) make a preliminary order forming a special road district known and designated as the Sedalia and Longwood Rock road district, and

Whereas, the three commissioners appointed in said district by the court failed to call an election on the first Tuesday in January, 1907, to elect three commissioners to serve as commissioners in said road district, and,

Whereas, the forty-fourth general assembly of the state of Missouri did amend section 3 of the act of April 14, 1905, authorizing and requiring the county courts to call an election in said districts where there are vacancies;

Therefore, the court orders an election held at the Cartwright school house, in the said Longwood district, on Thursday, August 22, 1907, for the election of three road commissioners for said district. One to serve till the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, 1908, and one till 1909, and one till 1910.

GIRL LOSES A MILLION

FATHER DEMANDED RETURN OF CHILD WHO HAD BEEN ADOPTED.

ONCE LIVED AT ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Six-Year-Old Hazel Statler Had Been Sent to the Home of a Rich Man in Lincoln, Who Wanted to Make Her His Heiress

Omaha, Aug. 7.—Six-year-old Hazel Statler has just been restored to the arms of a poor father and has lost an inheritance of nearly a million dollars.

She is the daughter of Earl Statler, of St. Joseph, Mo. Her mother committed suicide several years ago and her father sent her to an aunt in Omaha.

The juvenile court took her from the custody of her aunt because the aunt was not regarded as fit to rear her.

Recently W. M. Leonard, a wealthy business man of Lincoln, obtained permission from the authorities to take the child to his home.

He has no children and was about to make the little girl sole heiress to his property, valued at nearly a million dollars, when the child's father demanded that she be restored to him.

Objection was made to his taking her from the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, but he brought habeas corpus proceedings to get custody of her.

The habeas corpus case was set for hearing in the district court here yesterday, but during the morning Mr. and Mrs. Leonard gave the child to her father and the case was dismissed.

KILLED A PEASANT

American Auto Ran Into and Killed a Deaf Swiss.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 7.—An automobile containing Heinrich Conried, director of the Metropolitan opera house company, of New York, while touring yesterday, ran down and killed a deaf peasant near Las Chem, and hundreds of villagers threatened the party with vengeance.

Policemen calmed the peasants and Conried and his chauffeur, Ernest Stahl, and another American were taken to the nearest police station, where Conried gave bail for the chauffeur's appearance in court.
